FEDERAL COURTS SHORT OF FUNDS

Lawyers Want President to Call Special Session of Congress

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Washington, D. C. — Lawyers throughout the country Thursday were urging that President Coolidge call a special session of Congress to provide funds to keep the federal courts functioning.

From all parts of the nation come reports of failure of federal courts to function due to the failure of the deficiency bill. Some lawyers were prone to blame Attorney General Sargent for the situation. They said that if he had properly estimated the needs of his department the money could have been provided in a regular appropriation bill, instead of being placed in a deficiency bill.

Federal Judges in Philadelphia suspended sessions of their courts as early as March 21, due to lack of funds. They have just been reopened to hear civil cases where no juries are required. There is no means of paying witness and jury fees.

District Judge Hazel at Buffalo has had to suspend even the civil calendar. District Judge Clark at Newark has suspended both civil and criminal cases.

In many districts throughout the United States important criminal cases have been suspended and prisoners must remain in prison until fall, unless they can make bail, innocent or guilty.

A disheartening situation faces judges who have worked hard to clean up their dockets. They see them congested again.

Failure to provide money for the courts to function denies to prisoners the constitutional guarantee that "in all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the rights of a speedy and public trial."

The United States marshal's office at San Antonio, Texas, is flat broke and Judge Duval West in the Western District of Texas cancelled summons is issued for last week due to lack of funds.

At Buffalo, the immigration force along the border has been cut, and there is danger that 10,000 aliens will slip in. The force along the Mexican border also will have to be curtailed.

NEW COUNTERFEIT $10 BILL IN CIRCULATION

A new counterfeit $10 Federal Reserve bank note has been announced by the United States Treasury department, according to word received at the local postoffice. The description of the note said it was an issue of the Cleveland, O. bank, series of 1915, "check letter B; face plate No. 193; back plate No. 1314; Frank White, Treasurer of the United States; A. W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury; portrait of Jackson."

This counterfeit is a photomechanical production printed on two pieces of paper between which imitation silk threads have been distributed. The numbering and seal are executed in pale blue ink. The lines forming the circular text within the seal are irregularly developed. Serial number specimen at hand, D2223502A.

Care should be exercised in handling notes of this variety, as the counterfeit will deceive the unwary.

AGED WOMAN STRUCK BY TRAIN SLIGHTLY HURT

Struck by a switch engine shortly after 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon while she was standing on the North Western railroad tracks at E. Atlantic st., Mrs. Antonio Kranz, 75 years old, 215 E. Atlantic st., was knocked into a ditch and only slightly injured, according to the police department.

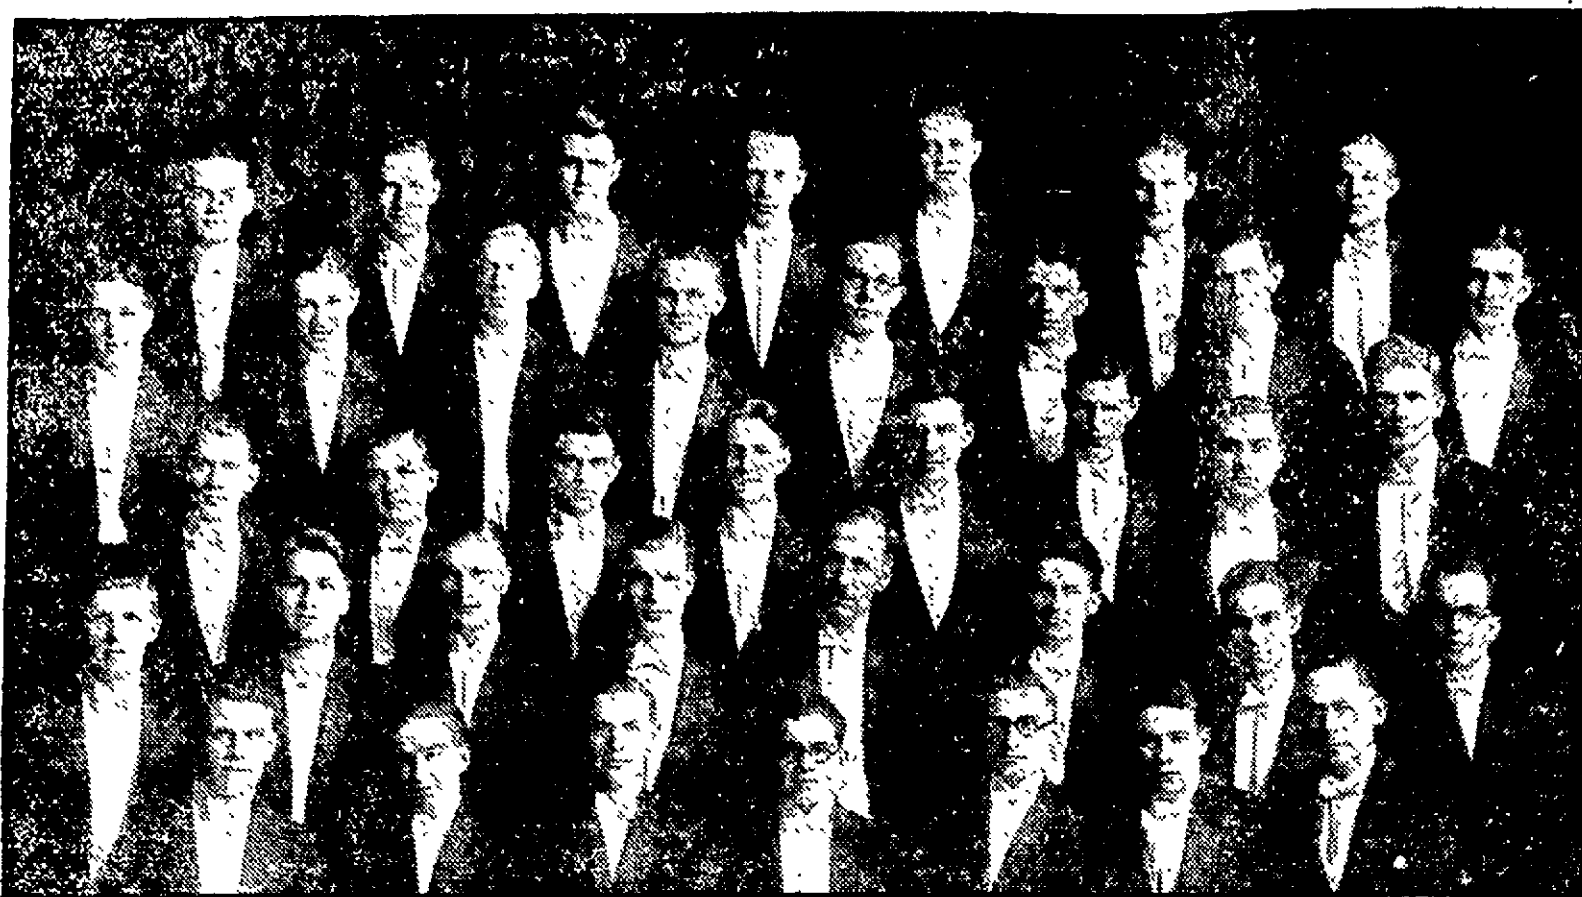

Her forehead was scratched and her right hip injured, it was reported to police. She was taken to her home nearby by two switchmen.

Mrs. Kranz had stopped on the east track when she observed the approach of a freight train on an adjoining track. Watching the freight train go by, she did not see the switch engine coming toward her. Neither did the engineer or fireman of the engine see the aged woman until they were almost upon her.

The engine was not traveling fast, and when it struck her, it knocked her clear off the tracks.

A physician was called to her home immediately.

40 Singers In Lawrence College Glee Club

Lawrence college glee club of 40 voices will sing the annual home concert at Lawrence Memorial chapel Monday evening. The club has returned from its spring tour when it sang in 13 cities. Congratulatory press notices were given to the club wherever it appeared, and many acclaimed it the most successful concert season of the Lawrence club. It is directed by Carl J. Waterman, dean of Lawrence conservatory of music.

Members of the club as they appear in the picture are:

Second row — Kirk Miles, Frank Scadden, Kenneth Emmons, Kenneth Newton, Lael Westberg, Jack Rudolph, Ross Cannon, James Archie.

DRY MEN DISCOVER LIQUOR SHORTAGE

Many Places Are Raided During Week but Only One Person Is Arrested

Although they spent two days in the country this week, three state prohibition men found little illicit liquor flowing in Appleton or nearby municipalities. At least eight raids were conducted by the dry officers, and alleged liquor was found in only one.

This was "The Glass Front," a roadhouse located on the Darby road. The alleged liquor was found buried in the ground outside the building. Mary McWay, found in the house, was arrested for possession of intoxicating liquor. She pleaded not guilty Tuesday morning when arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg, and her trial was adjourned to Saturday, April 23. She furnished $500 bail. The roadhouse was raided about 1:30 Monday afternoon.

Only one place was raided in this city. It was a private home, but

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL IN SAFETY COUNCIL

Appleton Vocational school received its membership certificate this week in the National Safety council. There are 4,310 members in the council, which promotes safety for the individual, the public, and industry. Its headquarters are at Chicago.

The council issues illustrated safety posters, a monthly safety news bulletin, motion pictures and slides dealing with safety subjects, a $1,000,000 library and issues safety pamphlets.

neither liquor, mash, or a still was found there. Several raids were conducted on private homes at Kimberly, and the remainder were made through the county.

With the arrival of spring, many roadhouses tear down their stills and hide them until next winter, it is pointed out by officials. When the weather turns cold again and when snow covers the ground, making country roads practically impossible, the stills are brought forth once more to manufacture liquor for another winter. When the snows are deep and the roads bad, moonshiners are comparatively safe, but from now on they will conduct their trade with more care, it is believed.

EMPLOYMENT ON INCREASE, SAYS INDUSTRY BOARD

Condition Still Is Less Favorable Than Last Year, However

Madison—(AP)—For the first time since last August, there has been a favorable turn in the amount of employment in Wisconsin, the state Industrial commission reported Tuesday. The increased employment occurred in practically all lines of industry.

"However," the report states, "as compared with a year ago the amount of employment is still less. This is due to the fact that there has been practically a continuous decline in employment since last fall, so it will take some time for the amount of employment to regain its former level."

In addition to the reports on the amount of employment, manufacturers report considerable labor turnover, which in the course of a year would mean that more than 50 per cent of the employees would have changed jobs.

The industries showing increase in employment from January to February are as follows: mining, 6.2 per cent; manufacturing, 2.9 per cent; and retail sales force 6.5 per cent. The increase in manufacturing was general, automobiles showing a considerable increase amounting to 8.6 per cent. The industries showing declines from January to February are as follows: leather, 2.5 per cent; textiles, .8 per cent; building 2.7 per cent, and highway work 2.6 per cent.

As compared with a year ago the only important industries to show increases are iron mining, 31.8 per cent; rubber manufacturing, 1.5 per cent; paper manufacturing 2.9 per cent food products 3.2 per cent; and retail sales force 3.5 per cent. The industries showing decreases in employment as compared with a year ago are as follows: lead and zinc mining, 13.3 per cent; metal working, 9.7 per cent; wood working 9.3 per cent; leather, 9.2 per cent; textiles 2.6 per cent; building, 19.5 per cent, highway construction, 11.4 per cent.

Seek Bids

Bids for cast iron pipes, installation of several water mains will be opened and the contracts awarded at the semi-monthly meeting of the water commission at the city hall at 11 o'clock Saturday morning. Other routine matters will be transacted.

CHEAP FERTILIZER FROM SHOALS SEEN ONLY AS IDLE DREAM

Commercial Production of Nitrates Fast Reaching Ob-

By FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE
Washington—Muscle Shoals, which has vexed congress ever since the war ended, is in process of solving itself. Inability to harmonize the elements—power, powder and fertilizer—has been the stumbling block. Science and the progress of industry is in the way of removing this obstacle. The fact is that for the commercial production of nitrates the Muscle Shoals project is fast reaching obsolescence, and with nitrate eliminated, powder and fertilizer fade from the picture and power alone remains. Fertilizer for farmers from Muscle Shoals becomes an idle dream. It is a mammoth power project and nothing else that congress will soon be required to deal with it.

Science and industry have perfected new processes for the extraction of nitrogen from the air—processes far simpler and cheaper than the process which the Muscle Shoals nitrate plant was created to employ. Contrary to general impression, coal and coke, not hydroelectric power, are the most important factors in nitrate "fixation" today. Because of this fact, talk of the conversion of Muscle Shoals nitrate plant to the employment of new processes is entirely beside the mark.

The Allied Chemical and Dye corporation of New York, recently announced its plans to spend $100,000,000 in the erection of a gigantic plant at Hopewell, Va., for the production of nitrates for fertilizer, extracted from the air by the sympathetic process. This is but the forerunner of other like private undertakings to compete with Chilean nitrates, in the fertilizer market, and to furnish nitrates for explosives in time of war. The war department concedes that Muscle Shoals will soon cease to figure as a factor in national defense.

SIMPLIFIED PROCESS
The Hopewell plant will employ fuel, not water power, to obtain its nitrates for fertilizer. This testifies more eloquently than all the flood of words appearing in technical and trade journals to the proven practicability of the synthetic process for nitrate fixation. It spells the doom of the more complicated and expensive processes which required vast quantities of electric power for their operation.

The more congress talked about the several bids for a 50-year lease of Muscle Shoals, the more it became apparent that the fertilizer features of all the proposals were largely camouflage, designed to mask the bidders' real objective—control of the power. Fertilizer for the farmers was a popular chord in congress, and the bidders played on this chord for all it was worth, but without the slightest real expectation that fertilizer could be produced there at a price which the farmers could afford to pay, unless

MUSICAL SERVICE AT CHURCH MOVIE SHOW

A musical service by the quartet and junior choir of the First Congregational church has been arranged to precede the motion picture to be shown at the evening services Easter day. Carl J. Waterman is director of the quartet and Mrs. R. J. Watts of the junior choir. Others in the quartet are Mrs. Marlan Ramsay Waterman, soprano, Miss Eleanor McKibbin, alto, and J. Raymond Walsh, baritone.

The motion picture will be "The Heritage of Faith" which tells the story of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Whitman, the first Christian missionaries to go into the Oregon territory.

the government, in one way or another, subsidized it. Indeed, every fertilizer proposal stipulated for some form of subsidy.

These bids, like the water which flowed over the Wilson dam in Alabama while congress talked, are now gone by forever. When congress tackles the problem of Muscle Shoals at the next session, it must decide first whether to lease or sell the property as it stands, or to engage in government operation and sell the power. There will be a big battle on this issue, which is identical with the issue in the Boulder dam project—whether Boulder dam shall be operated by private business or by Uncle Sam.

Whichever course congress follows, it is confronted with the further vital question of whether Muscle Shoals power shall be utilized in the immediate vicinity for private industry there, or widely distributed as an aid in the rapid industrial expansion of the entire south. The south itself, outside of Alabama, is a unit in favor of the latter course.

GONE—$150,000,000
The government has spent to date $150,000,000 at Muscle Shoals. Of this sum, roughly, $100,000,000 is chargeable to nitrate plants—or, in a word, to powder—for the plants were built to make war explosives. This hundred million is a war cost and, as it has turned out a war loss. None of the lease proposals, including the Henry Ford offer in 1922, contained substantial compensation for Uncle Sam's nitrate "investment." The remaining $50,000,000 represents cost of power facilities—plant and dams capable of producing in the average year, 2½ billion "kilowatt hours," or something more than half the combined output of electrical energy last year in Alabama and the five adjacent southern states.

Such Value Will Prove Irresistible —

The impressive beauty of this suite is inspiring, while such unusual value will prove an inducement that will be very hard to resist. Rather than present it as a $250 or even $225 value, we prefer to just extend an invitation to you to come see it for yourself. Let us say this, — that it represents value such as is possible through huge quantity buying, and is certainly an impressive example of the advantages brought to you through this combined 32 store furniture buying organization.

Rich Tiffany Walnut Finish —

In the making of this suite, walnut has been generously used. The top and sides of the buffet appear in a beautiful, finely grained walnut veneer while the buffet front is of skillfully hand matched burl walnut, effectively trimmed with ornaments on the doors. Silver drawer is faced with striped mahogany, which blends perfectly with the rich Tiffany. Bulbous, carved legs and mitered paneling add greatly to the general effect of the massive, stately design.

COUNTY DOCTORS PLAN CLINIC FOR YOUNG CRIPPLES

Dr. Henry Bascombe Thomas,
Chicago, Will Examine Children

Crippled children under the age of 7 will be examined by an expert orthopedic specialist, Dr. Henry Bascombe Thomas of Chicago, at the first clinic to be held in Outagamie county under auspices of the Outagamie County Medical association. The clinic will be conducted at Appleton Vocational school on Tuesday, April 19. County doctors will assist Dr. Thomas.

Several months ago, Herb Heilig, president of the Appleton Vocational school, and Dr. J. E. MacLaren, president of the Outagamie Medical society, discussed the possibility of staging a clinic here for crippled children in the county. The medical society studied the project at its next meeting and a committee composed of Dr. E. L. Bolton, Dr. V. F. Marshall and Dr. Charles Heinicke was appointed to take charge of arrangements for the first clinic. They secured the services of Dr. Thomas.

Before the clinic could be held it was necessary to conduct a survey throughout the county to determine the number of crippled children. Through the assistance of A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, surveys were conducted in rural schools and similar surveys now are being made in the parochial and public schools in Kaukauna and Appleton, according to Herb Heilig.

STATE IS LEADER
"Wisconsin always has been a leader in caring for unfortunate citizens," said Mr. Heilig. "We have schools for the blind, deaf, dumb, and mentally deficient, but one recently was action taken to help crippled children. Under Wisconsin law each vocational school board is allowed to use public funds in rehabilitation work for crippled young men and women over 14 years of age. However the state law does not provide for aid for children below that age."

"In order to successfully cope with the situation it is necessary that the crippled child be taken under supervision as young as possible. Statistics prove that 75 per cent of all disabled citizens are crippled before they reach the age of seven. They also show that four of every 1,000 children are cripples. These figures very emphatically point out the need for a rehabilitation program."

The work in Appleton is being done with the cooperation of the Wisconsin Rehabilitation commission and the Wisconsin Association for the Disabled. As soon as the survey has been completed the results tabulated, a list of the disabled children will be compiled and efforts to bring them to the clinic will be made. Means of transportation will be furnished those who cannot otherwise get to Appleton. The program for Outagamie-co includes the survey, holding the clinic, and the follow up work, according to Mr. Heilig. The surveys will be completed this week, the first of a series of clinics will be held next week, and steps for followup work are being made by the doctors in cooperation with the state commission and Mr. Heilig.

WILL CONDUCT CAMPAIGN
As soon as all facts and figures are available, Mr. Heilig will make a campaign to interest local organizations in the program and to have them sponsor the movement. Only two other counties in the state have held clinics. They are Fond du Lac and Antigo. Ohio is the pioneer in this work.

After the clinic for children under seven, other clinics will be held for children to 14, and then for adults. The orthopedic specialist will give advice and prescribe exercises to be followed which may in time correct many cases. Two school nurses will assist at the clinic. Their services were offered by the school board.

An effort will be made to secure a foster-father for each crippled child, according to Mr. Heilig. It will be his duty to keep in close touch with the unfortunate youngster to see that he is following instructions laid down by the specialist and that his education is not neglected.

Following the clinic on Tuesday, a meeting of the medical society will be held at Conway hotel in the evening. Doctors from the surrounding county have been invited. Dr. Thomas will discuss some interpretations of Orthopedic Surgery. A banquet will precede the meeting.

Women's Simpler Hygiene

More Absorbent—
Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. RUCKLARD
Wichmann News

ALL the problems of old-time hygienic ways have recently been ended, largely because of a new way called KOTEX.

✓ Kotex discards as easily as tissue. Thus no laundry, no embarrassment of disposal.

Being 5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, you wear lighter gowns and frocks without slightest fear. Deodorizes, too, thus ending all fear of offense.

Obtain at any store without embarrassment simply by saying "KOTEX." Many stores have it already wrapped on counters, ready for you to pick up and take along without even asking for it.

Try today and you'll never again risk the uncertainty of old ways. Box of 12 costs only a few cents. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

Urge Rural Schools To Observe Forest Week

Urging all rural schools in Outagamie-co to observe Forest Week and Arbor Day, A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, this week mailed suggestive programs to the teachers. Governor Fred L. Zimmerman has designated April 21 to 29 as Forest Week, and Friday, April 29, as Arbor Day.

Mr. Meating has requested teachers to plan general exercises for the weeks so that emphasis will be given to forestry and the need of preserving and conserving forests.

He has outlined a program which he suggests be followed by all schools on Arbor Day.

The regular school program will be conducted from 9 to 10:30. From 10:30 to noon a discussion on the Meaning of Arbor Day will be held. Students will be told how the idea originated, and what can be done to bring back forest life. Forests of long ago and those of today will be described, and the result upon the people 50 years from now if trees are destroyed will be pictured.

One hour will be devoted to noon for a lunch period, and from 1 o'clock to 2:30 students will clean the school yards, rake up the grass, destroy rubbish and pile up wood.

At 2:30 students of each school will plant a tree, make a flower bed, and plant a vine to decorate the fence, woodshed or other buildings. The afternoon program will be completed with songs and quotations.

JOB'S AVAILABLE IN PRODUCTS LABORATORY

Applications for positions as junior chemists in the United States Forest Products laboratory at Madison will be received by the United States Civil Service commission until April 30. It is announced. Senior students will be admitted to the examination but will not be eligible for appointment until they have been graduated.

Optional subjects, as inorganic analytical, organic or physical chemistry, may be selected. Full information and application blanks may be obtained from the commission at Washington, D. C., or from H. J. Frank, secretary of the local board of civil service examiners, at the post office.

CHICAGO Y. M. C. A. HEAD WILL SPEAK HERE NEXT MONDAY

Dinner Will Open Week's Campaign in Appleton for $35,000

Dr. E. C. Jenkins, president of the Y. M. C. A. college at Chicago and one of the leading figures in national association work, will be the principal speaker Monday evening at the opening dinner of the $35,000 campaign of the Appleton association, according to word received Thursday by President E. J. Harwood. The drive will open Monday and will be completed Saturday evening. Team captains already have been chosen and have practically lined up their teams.

The money is needed to complete payments on the new addition opened three years ago, to pay a floating indebtedness of the last six years, and to make several replacements to bring the building up to date. The addition contains 18 new dormitories, new boys club rooms and a handball court. At the time it was built a "still hunt" was held to pay for it but it was postponed before completed because of other projects. The additional club rooms not only allow the association to give service to more boys, but also offered a place for boys Scout meetings and for a complete community project, the Appleton religious day school.

The floating debt was caused when the association increased its program extensively to beyond its income. Some equipment is old and some is more or less obsolete and must be replaced, Mr. Harwood said. The dormitories also will be redecorated and refurnished from the money secured in the drive and the entire program will be expanded. The money also will relieve an interest debt of about $1,500 a year.

KAUKAUNA PEOPLE ON PROGRAM AT MEDINA

Prof. Hageman of the Outagamie Rural normal school at Kaukauna gave an illustrated talk on the schools in Ashland, and Mr. Haass of Kaukauna showed pictures of the scenery and home life in Norway at the meeting of the Medina Community association Tuesday evening at the school house. Large selections were played by J. Orville Creviere of Kaukauna. The program closed with community singing. A pie social was held in connection with the meeting. Out of town persons at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. Orville Creviere, Miss Adele Busing, Miss Thelma Johnson, J.

SOPHOMORE CLASS WILL GIVE SCHOOL CURTAINS

Sophomores at Appleton high school will give curtains for the stage in the assembly room as the annual class gift. It was decided at a meeting of the class. Previously, the class has presented an American flag, but one was not needed this year.

An assembly program will be sponsored by the class this spring. The committee in charge will include Clarence Eggert, Beryl Colburn and Robert Neller.

G. Smith, Prof. Hageman and J. J. Haass of Kaukauna and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Collar of Hortonville.

ANOTHER COOLIDGE VICTORY

We read the interesting information in a Washington dispatch that Senator McNary of Oregon, one of the authors of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, has just had a three-hour breakfast conference with President Coolidge, the outcome of which is that the farm leader will support Mr. Coolidge for renomination. It is further stated that the senator, administration leaders and the president will endeavor to reach a compromise substitute for the McNary-Haugen bill which may be put through congress at the next session before the national campaign.

The incident is of more than passing significance. The country has been led to believe that the mid-West, together with those farm bloc leaders who were behind the agricultural legislation the administration would not approve, would be a unit in opposition to the renomination of Mr. Coolidge. At the time the president vetoed the McNary-Haugen measure and the rebellious acts and protests were registered in the mid-West, we made the observation that the revolt was probably exaggerated. There was much in it that had the appearance of professionalism. It had been cultivated by a group of political leaders in whom neither the farmers nor the country at large had any particular reason to repose confidence, and by certain newspapers notoriously unfriendly to the administration.

Events seem to be justifying this view, Mr. Lowden's avowed candidacy notwithstanding. The winning of Senator McNary over to the president's side is a highly important victory for the administration. Equally important is the frank announcement that the McNary forces are willing to work with the president for a compromise bill. We should not be surprised if at the wind-up only those political radicals whose standing is pretty well discredited would be found demanding the McNary-Haugen bill and nothing else. Furthermore, thousands of farmers in the mid-West on sober reflection will be more inclined to trust the president's judgment than that of those who are out to beat him. They may demand tariff revision downward, but on purely agricultural legislation they will, we suspect, be less likely to go on chasing butterflies next year than they were this year and last. There is still time before the election for the administration to do something for the farmer, and the president has a deservedly high reputation for political astuteness.

IMMIGRATION RESTRICTION

Representative Sabath, of Illinois, an opponent for many years of practical measures for limiting immigration, has just given out a denunciation of the law which provides that immigrants shall be let in according to the national origins principle. He charges discrimination. This method, so roundly criticized by Representative Sabath and which will become operative if the present law stands, is intended to give each nation its proper share of the 150,000 quota immigrants which the law admits.

The use of the national origins principle means that those 150,000 admissions are to be divided among the different nations according to the contribution of racial stock that each nation has previously made to our whole population. The previous apportionment has merely taken two per cent of the resident foreigners shown in the 1890 census and is based solely on the foreign elements in the country. The new method considers the stock existing in the native as well as in the foreign born; figures the amount of English, Irish, Italian, German, Scandinavian and other blood in the entire nation, and divides the admissions accordingly.

As far as we can see it is a measure deliberately intended to keep our racial make-up as nearly as possible what it is at present and is a fair enough method if it will work out well in practice. What basis Representative Sabath finds for his charge of discrimination is hard to see. On the face of it the measure is at least non-discriminatory.

CHASING THE AMBULANCE

The action of three circuit judges at Milwaukee in opening up an investigation into the disreputable practice of ambulance chasing and other ills that sometimes afflict the legal profession, but mostly in the larger cities, is the right sort of an effort to keep the stream of justice unpolluted.

The claim is made, and with strong evidence to support it, that some Milwaukee lawyers and near lawyers operate a system for the solicitation of personal injury cases and criminal cases, employing for this purpose a corps of astute individuals whose purpose is to get the business. The evidence at hand indicates a far-reaching method fraught with every known danger to the administration of justice. Solicitors of this sort of business are generally paid upon a percentage basis; the cases must succeed in order to bring them a fee; it is but a short step to the training and coaching of witnesses. The entire business is heartless and vicious. There is little or no consideration for the rights of the client. He is a mere pawn. Such a practice not only brings the legal profession into disrepute, but it so clearly obstructs the functions of the courts that it brings them into a similar disrepute.

In this respect Wisconsin has a reputation worth maintaining, for it may be well doubted whether there is a state in the Union with a better record in the administration of justice. Here the criminal with his usual sob story or plea of insanity has had little chance. Wisconsin's reputation in the Chicago underworld is such that the only crooks who come from that city here to ply their hazardous business are the poor goofs who are unacquainted with the fact that the Chicago standard does not prevail in Wisconsin. Crimes of violence, murder, burglary, rape, robbery and similar offenses are taboo here. The offense of framing personal injury cases is nearly, if not quite, as reprehensible. When the fabric of justice is torn in one place it generally gives in another. It should be maintained at equal strength throughout.

OLD MASTERS

I met a traveler from an antique land
Who said: Two vast and trunkless legs of stone
Stand in the desert. Near them, on the sand,
A half-buried shape, a shattered visage lies, whose frown
And wrinkled lip and sneer of cold command
Tell that its sculptor well those passions read
Which yet survive, stamped on these lifeless things,
The hand that mocked them and the heart that fed;
And on the pedestal these words appear:
"My name is Ozymandias, king of kings;
Look at my works, ye Mighty, and despair!"
Nothing beside remains. Round the decay
Of that colossal wreck, boundless and bare,
The lone and level sands stretch far away.
—Percy Bysshe Shelley: "Ozymandias of Egypt"

LET THE MARINES DO IT

Chaperones are coming back into style, according to a social note. Are the old people getting wild again? . . . The chaperon is a relic of the flaming Victorian days when young people used to play postoffice instead of robbing it. . . . Speaking of Coolidge's lame hand, perhaps it would be well for the president to take a chaperon along when he rides west this summer. The chaperon could do the handshaking in the great open spaces where hands are box-car couplers. . . . Of late we've been depending on the marines to do most of the chaperoning. . . . They have arrived in several communities and seem to have the chaperoning situation well in hand. . . . The best chaperoned thing we can think of right now is the constitution.

BEWARE THE TUB!

An insurance company reveals that the bathtub is a dangerous fixture, 98 persons being paid for falls in tubs last year. Next time you see a soap individual, don't scoff at him—maybe the poor fellow has quit bathing because he just can't keep up his insurance. . . . Forty-four claims were paid for persons injured getting in or out of bed, the company reports, but we know that unnumbered thousands deeply hurt at getting out of bed probably never were insured. . . . If you don't think a bathtub is perilous, just look what one did for Earl Carroll!

Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

MORIBUND EFFECT OF DOCTOR BOOK

An Oklahoma correspondent writes:

Dear sir:
Believing I am afflicted with that awful disease syphilis I thought I would ask a little information of you. I have not felt well for a few years and having read a neighbor's doctor book I feel sure I have the catarrh of that disease and also the rheumatism in my joints. Now in the book it says, "I went to a Dr. A. . . . here but he said he didn't think I had the disease. But I know I have all the symptoms like it says in the doctor book and I do believe if I knew what to get I could doctor myself."

R. F. M.
This is the reason why I usually refuse to send correspondents "leaflets," "pamphlets," "booklets," and the like about disease conditions. Indeed, I take care never to promise to send such a thing, though I am glad to give information or advice about hygiene or health in many cases where the correspondent shows me he should have it. Personal health advice, I call this. It is very different from the distribution of medical information or the peddling of doctor book stuff.

There is a place and a real need in the home for a reliable manual or guide for first aid treatment and the home management of minor ills. There is no such guide or manual published, however. The publishers do not recognize that such a book would have a wide demand. The doctors who might write such a book do not care to enter the publishing business. So there is no present prospect that we shall have such a book, though I think most good doctors and health authorities agree that such a book is needed.

There are many excellent books dealing with various aspects of hygiene and health and a few dealing with disease from the viewpoint of the patient. I like to recommend these here and by mail, when I know about them. But each and all of the pertinent "doctor books" which purport to give the purchaser inside knowledge or knowledge of his insides and especially knowledge of mysterious matters which are ordinarily kept dark, are vicious in effect, in my judgment, and I believe it would be better for the purchaser's health if he would default on the payments or if he buys before he looks them if he would use the book for kindling fires. A considerable share of the alleged doctor books which are sold for a nominal sum or given away are intended to boost some quack or nostrum business, and in that they are a huge success, though the poor gullible woman—usually it is a woman—who takes these fake "hygiene" books seriously is to be pitied, for she has no way to sort out the truths which are shrewdly interspersed in the humbug of such books.

The Oklahoma correspondent probably has nothing like syphilis, as the honest Dr. A. . . . assumed he had, but she has something rather worse, I fear, namely, a vicious "doctor book."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Conditional Agreement

If there is no such thing as blood pressure write to my insurance company. . . . (N. T.)
Answer—Very well. Now which one of us is sarcastic?

The Iodin Ration

Some of our friends have discarded iodized salt, having heard that its use may cause horrid effects. Before we throw out our stock we want to have Dr. Brady's opinion. We have been using it exclusively for two years and we fancy it has rather bettered our general health. (Mrs. S. G. A.)

Answer—We have been using it in our household for several years, and the exclusion of plain salt and some of us like to take a nip of medicinal iodine besides, now and then. The rumor that there is any possible harm in the use of iodized salt is inspired, I think by the manufacturers of certain expensive proprietary iodine compounds, and I regret to note that some medical men lend themselves to this trickery.

Mrs. C. W. Mory, Mrs. M. F. Mitchell and Mrs. J. A. Hawes entertained at a luncheon the previous afternoon at the home of the latter. The ladies were to entertain at another party the following afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Limpert entertained a company of friends at their home on State-st., the previous evening, the occasion being their fifteenth wedding anniversary.

The petition for a division of the town of Kaukauna was granted that morning by the county board and the recommendations constituting the report of the special committee appointed to confer with the district attorney were also adopted. The committee in its report recommended that the eastern subdivision of the town be known as the town of Kaukauna and the western subdivision be known as the town of Vandenberg.

The plant of the Standard and White manufacturers of locomotive cab seats which was located on Franklin-st. was completely destroyed by fire at 2:20 that morning.

Clerks employed in the retail stores of the city were to hold a meeting at the city hall the following Tuesday evening for the purpose of organizing a Clerk's Early Closing association.

TEN YEARS AGO

Friday, April 18, 1917

The Austrian minister to Brazil that day made formal request for his passports stating his government's intention to support its ally Germany in the break with Brazil.

Informal "peace feelers" launched by Austria-Hungary and Bulgaria in Switzerland were expected to determine what would be expected of these countries if a formal peace move was brought forth. It was learned by the United States that day while declaring no word had come from their home governments for some time, officials attached to the Bulgarian legation that day admitted reports of peace moves probably were true.

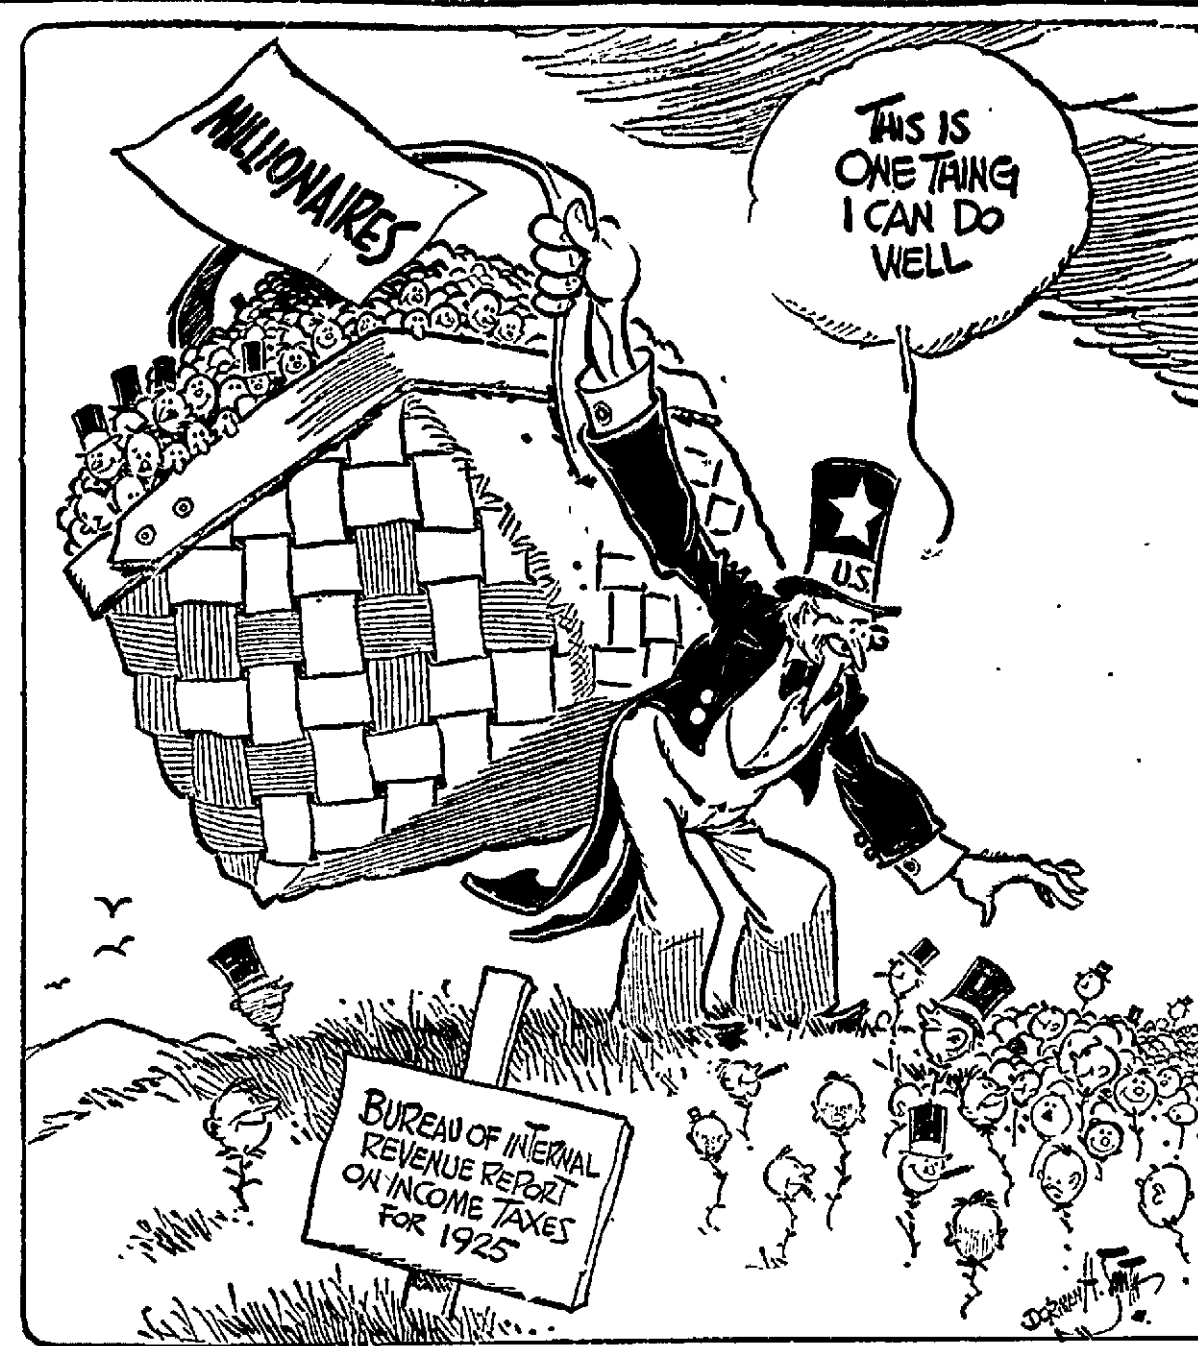

Rumors of a submarine plying off the Pacific coast were persistent but there had been no official verification. It was announced by the navy department that day.

Plans to make the seized German and Austrian ships a part of the American merchant marine were discussed that day at a conference between Secretary McAdoo and Chairman Denman of the federal shipping board. There were three ways by which the United States could take over the 50 German and 14 Austrian vessels. They were: Seize the ships as prizes of war; requisition of vessels under the right of eminent domain and purchase of ships by Americans.

About 16,000 more National guards had been ordered out by the war department the previous day for police duty in various parts of the country. It was reported that military men in Wisconsin were participating an early call for the Wisconsin men which would mean Company G and recruits.

Mrs. Frank Murphy and Mrs. William Tiekman entertained a company of ladies at luncheon and dinner at the home of the former on E. College-ave, the previous afternoon.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

THE RACE NOT TO THE SWIFT

Is there anywhere in the world a normal man who loves a woman so much that he is willing and glad to give her to another to make her happy? Is there anywhere in the world a woman who is willing to let another woman have the man she loves, merely because it will make him happy?

There may be. All I know is that I have never met one, have never heard of an authentic case in real life. Hence my profound skepticism in regard to such a situation in literature. Yet it is a curious fact that novelists used to harp on such situations a great deal—the greatest as well as the poorest writers. The title of the chapter giving such a situation was usually "The Great Renunciation," or "The Supreme Renunciation," or something of that sort. Of course, two chapters later the author catches his cards in such a way that the renunciation is not necessary, after the last tear drop has been squeezed out of it, and the story ends in happiness.

Viola Paradise, in "The Pacer," a 1927 novel, does not follow the old formula. This particular situation is not the important part of the book, it is hardly more than incidental. But it is introduced nevertheless. A quiet plodding, sincere domestic pickle factory manager is more fanatically in love with his wife than seems possible for so unimaginative a man. She thinks she is in love with a poet. After a hundred pages or so of struggle by both sides to let the poet have her, if she will only come back home now and then and show him, the husband a little friendliness.

I can no more believe that than I could believe that a man could suddenly develop wings and fly away like a bird. It isn't in human nature. It does not ring true. It is not a picture of actual human life, but of human life such as a romantic novelist would like it to be.

That is the reason why I am citing this incident, a relatively unimportant part in the story. It very clearly betrays the cast of the author's mind. "The Pacer" is a novel by a romantic. Its outward method is realistic. It purports to describe life in Chicago during the past ten or half a dozen years. But it is life described by one who sits in a study and imagines how it must be or should be, without taking the trouble to mingle in the hurly-burly.

Briefly, Judith, the heroine, works in a pickle factory, is called "the pacer" because she is quicker than the others and sets the pace. She is quick in her thinking too and knows it. She marries the boss, takes courses at the University of Chicago after she has become a wife and mother, mingles in the ultra-advanced set. There too she is "the pacer," her mind keener and quicker than the minds of the others. After a time she seems to have outstripped everybody and she is dissatisfied with her slow humdrum life. Then meets the poet and falls in love with him because he is not slow and humdrum, like her pickle factory husband. However, she and the poet give each other up and she goes to New York. The husband meanwhile goes to a book store, reads up on sociology, and comes to the conclusion that she has a right to love some one else. He offers to let her have her poet, and thereby she discovers that, slow and humdrum though he has always seemed, he has far outpaced her. She falls in love with him again.

The story is not by any means without interest. The material is handled with more skill, and the characters, while not quite alive, are not painfully dull. But the trail of the bred-in-the-bone romantic is over it all.

The writer seems to say to herself: "I'll take this triangle situation and fix it all up nice coming. I won't let anything get in that will deflect attention from the tight, snug story. I'm on the job all the time to keep the characters where they belong. The story has to illustrate my idea of the pacer and I'll fix it all up carefully so there can be no mistake."

And she does. In its way the story is well done, competently written. But it is a story by a craftsman, not by one who deals in the stuff that makes literature.

The Question Box

Q. What kind of front door has the White House? P. H. B.

A. The steps leading to the main entrance are stone. The main door is 5 ft. wide, 9 ft. 10 in. high and 2 1/2 in. thick, and is solid mahogany.

Q. Is the California violet the largest of the violet family? T. B. T.

A. With the exception of the pansy the California violet is possibly the largest.

Q. How large will the battleships Rodney and Nelson be? A. P. S.

A. The British ships Rodney and Nelson when completed will be the largest battleships in the world. They will have a displacement of 35,000 tons, a speed of 23 knots, main battery of 9-16 inch guns with a maximum range of 20,000 yards. They are expected to be completed this year.

Q. Which of the Central American States is the largest? A. C.

A. Nicaragua has the largest area, 49,200 square miles. Guatemala has the largest population, 2,119,165.

Q. Do the two satellites of Mars move around that planet in the same direction or does one move one way, and the other the other? W. A. E.

A. The Naval Observatory says that both satellites of Mars move around that planet in the same direction; but the inner satellite completes one revolution in less time than Mars makes one rotation and therefore, seen from Mars, it appears to move in the opposite direction to the outer satellite.

Q. Are there floating islands? L. T.

A. There are many floating islands. These are sometimes formed by the detachment of portions of the bank, in which roots form a strong enough network to hold the earth together. Others are formed by accumulation of driftwood in tropical rivers and bays. Many lakes in Prussia, France, and England are noted for their floating islands.

Q. What is the old vault records? R. W. N.

A. A new record was recently made by Sabin Cane of Yale. He cleared the bar in an indoor meet at 13 feet 8 1/2 inches. This is an inch better than the record of Charlie Hoff of Norway.

Q. What are supers paid at the Metropolitan Opera House? W. E. S.

A. The girl super is paid $1 a performance. Men receive $150 for regular performances, $150 for regular rehearsals, and $1 for special rehearsals held immediately before performances. Children supers with small dancing parts receive $1.50. Negro supers receive the highest compensation of all, being paid $2 for ordinary performances and $2.50 for such operas as "L'Africaine."

Q. Has Uncle Tom's Cabin been filmed? C. C. S.

A. Ten years or more ago "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was produced in the movies with Marguerite Clark playing the parts of both Eva and Topsy. We are informed that a new production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is being filmed at the present time in Hollywood, Calif.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—One of the fascinating indoor sports of Manhattan is watching the ever-increasing flash of new names into prominence and wondering from whence they came.

Invariably each has a romance, written oftentimes in terms of struggle and, again, saturated with fictional flavor.

Not long ago the critics began to sing the praises of Frank Wilson, a Negro actor, who appeared in the obscure little Provincetown Playhouse, where in Eugene O'Neill got his start. No one seemed to know where or how he had been discovered, or where he had been hiding. "The Emperor Jones," the drama in which Wilson appeared, dealt with the Negro.

Investigation showed that for years he has been a mail carrier in Harlem, struggling to become an actor and a writer. Several plays are in his trunk and his status as an actor is established.

In a building on Madison avenue there is a Czech-Slovakian elevator man. The other day a young lady of my acquaintance happened to mention, while riding down to lunch, that she needed a costume for a fancy dress ball.

The elevator man, overhearing her remarks, casually asked if she had seen his exhibition of costumes in a leading art gallery.

Her inquiries revealed the fact that the elevator man has one of the finest collections of Czech blouses and costumes now to be found in America. He has been attending night school at Columbia and expects to enter the diplomatic offices of his homeland within a year or so. Uncertain of the sale of his important and needing money for his studies, he has worked as an elevator boy for more than a year.

On Broadway there are as many tales as there are notables heading the casts. This season it has been Lee Tracy, who barnstormed the vaudeville halls in song and dance acts, carved trails to the agents' offices, and was finally accidentally discovered because of the unusual demands of a dramatic role. Success and fame came overnight and, no doubt, will linger with him for many a month.

The other Sunday afternoon at a tea I met a Russian, whose skin showed the leathering of many suns. His conversation was of art and of artists, for he is an expert on the etchings of a celebrated Englishman and has been handling a big American collection.

Suddenly someone chanced to mention Mongolia in connection with the Chinese rebellion. At once he was off on a strange Canadian tale of a hunt in mountain fastnesses between Russia and Mongolia. Fifteen years ago he had been a great explorer for the old Russian government, plunging into every part of the world for museum trophies.

Such fictional adventures lie about every corner in New York, and they are as varied as those who appear in the above few paragraphs. A certain word, a casually dropped remark or the mention of a place and up bubbles a romance.

am entitled to any pension from the Government? K. N.

A. Children of Civil War veterans are eligible for pensions from the United States Government only where said child is insane, idiotic, or otherwise mentally or physically helpless and has been in that condition since before the age of 16 years.

Q. I should be pleased if you will kindly inform me as to the general proportion the root bears to the height of a tree. P. H. T.

A. The Bureau of Plant Industry says that the root system of most trees have a greater spread than the spread of the trees above the ground. Some trees have as great as three times as large a spread in the root system as in the branches.

Q. I am a Canadian by birth and have lived here more than ten years although I have not yet become naturalized. I wish to go to Canada for about two weeks. What steps should I take to enable me to pass the Immigration Officer? G. W. P.

A. Native born Canadians are not subject to quota restrictions. If you have a copy of your birth certificate it is probable that you will have no difficulty in re-entering the United States.

Jazz and Archibald

died within a few weeks, but Archibald thrived and he and Jazz came to have the warmest feeling for each other.

Jazz registers no objection to the check sitting on his back, and Archibald is glad to sit, as long as the supply of clover leaves that holds his attention is not allowed to run out.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

STRANGE ANIMAL FRIENDSHIPS

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n. Jazz is a small, white, fuzzy dog of the terrier type. Archibald is a young orphan woodchuck.

Between Archibald and Jazz there exists a most unusual friendly feeling, in view of the fact that Jazz is responsible for Archibald being an orphan.

Jazz and his owner accompanied a former friend on May Sunday morning to dig out a den of woodchucks on a sidehill near the farmer's house. The chucks had been visiting the garden, and the farmer feared for the future safety of his young lettuce and cabbage plants.

They dug down, following the winding tunnel that woodchuck can excavate at such a rapid rate, and finally they came near to the big nest of dry grass. Then Archibald's mother rushed out, a snarling fury, defend her family at any cost, and Jazz, true to his terrier blood, went to meet her.

It was an epic, that battle, for Jazz was a small dog, and the woodchuck was big and savage. When it was over the men pulled Jazz away and took the two baby woodchucks from the nest. Archibald's sister, Gertrude,

Aristocracy Joins Slums In Fight To Save Two Italians

By GENE COHN

Boston, Mass.—There has been something violently epidemic about the feelings the Sacco-Vanzetti case has aroused.

In the seven years during which the case has dragged slowly toward the death chair finale, scores of casual inquirers found themselves infected with the fever of crusaders, sacrificing money, leisure, and even social standing to take up the "cause" of the Italian fish peddler with the gentle smile and the more nervously explosive young factory worker.

They were folk from all the rungs of the social ladder, as contrasted with a group as ever marched in the same parade.

First of all, the idealistic young Feliciani—for all the world like someone picked from a novel. His print shop is almost hidden in a welter of colorful and pungent shops on Boston's "east side." His eyes are dream-stuck and his work aims impractically at art, rather than material profit. He has the poet's instincts and appearance, and also the poet's slender income. He was, perhaps, the first to enlist and has been treasurer of defense funds ever since.

FROM THE OPPOSITE POLE.
From the opposite pole is Mrs. Elizabeth Glendower Evans, descendant of one of those blue-blooded American lines in which "the Lowells speak only to Cabots and the Cabots speak only to God." She is a "Gardner" if you please, sprung of the Gardners who settled in Massachusetts long before the revolution. Good Tories most of them were, with a doughty old great-grandfather, whose apothecary shop was raided by a ruffian named Washington, and who went stamping cholericly back to England after calling Washington a thief.

A friend interested in social work told her about the Sacco-Vanzetti case. She went to Dedham to sit in at the first trial.

"Well," she told me, her blue eyes snapping brightly from under closely combed hair of sheer silver, "I followed the trial to the finish."

"I SHALL NOT STOP HELPING!"
"I heard it all with my own ears and carefully watched the proceedings. It seemed to me that I could have fallen upon my state. As an impartial juror I could not see any grounds for conviction."

"After the trial I went deeper into the matter. I have helped send what little case there was crashing to the ground. And I have not stopped fighting for a moment in the intervening years; I shall not stop until strength leaves me."

Mrs. Evans, it is said, has tossed a fortune into the defense fight. She carefully cradles the amount, but there are those who hint that her efforts have followed private income.

Then there is the defense lawyer, William G. Thompson. For years he was an outstanding corporation lawyer in Massachusetts. He has been head of the state bar association. His son has appeared in criminal cases in late years. His fortune is recited in seven figures.

He was engaged in litigation of a $2,500,000 collar corporation suit when urged to represent the two Italians, Sacco and Vanzetti. He didn't want to get into the case and said so. Finally he went to a couple of court hearings, largely in the interest of the bar association.

The fever caught him.

THINKS INJUSTICE DONE
Yet there is no hint of "radicalism" about Thompson. He has no sympathy with any "radical" theory held by the defendants. He also been animated, it is said of him, simply by belief that in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, legal injustice has been done.

Thompson came late into the case to direct appeals to the higher courts, after other defense lawyers had been discarded. His pleas to the higher courts failed. They held they could not examine the evidence; that they could pass only on questions whether prescribed formalities had been completed.

These are but a few instances of the way the "fever" has spread. From the austere social circles of Boston's "Back Bay" district many more could be recited. In the defense committee headquarters I counted four newspaper men who became interested while reporting the story, and now give their spare time to two men in whom they have only an impersonal interest, but whose battle has captured their imaginations.

JUDGE THAYER—A TINY MAN
Of other outstanding figures one of the most interesting and important is the trial judge, Webster Thayer, of Worcester. Judge Thayer is a tiny man, who, when perched upon his bench in his flowing black robes, looks for all the world like an anemic owl. Some illness doubtless is responsible for this, for the blanched pallor of his skin is accentuated by the black robe until it seems at times an almost bloodless blue. There is no mistaking the keenness of his eyes, nor the shrewdness and intelligence written upon his face. He is credited with an amazing memory and a wide knowledge of the law.

Those who know him describe him as kindly man, yet stubborn and tenacious when convinced. The Worcester Bar Association adopted resolutions of confidence in him when his handling of the Sacco-Vanzetti case was bitterly attacked.

Finally there is Governor A. T. Fuller, who apparently has become the court of last resort.

What will he do about Sacco and Vanzetti—spare them, or let them die?

FULLER'S SECOND TERM
This is Governor Fuller's second term in office. In Massachusetts he has a reputation for fairness. Having himself risen "from the ranks," he believes in opportunity for all in America. His political philosophies are in complete opposition to those of the fate he holds in his hands.

In the "hinc nuncies" he was a bicycle rider and later a manufacturer, thereby starting a fortune which grew as the automobile came 'round the turnpike. Today he heads one of the big motor factories and is wealthy enough to be politically independent.

Governor Fuller will act considerably. I would predict, on any appeal to him that seems to have been built from solid ground. I doubt it all the sympathy strikes, hunger strikes, rallies and ultimatums in the world would move him one tenth as quickly as the facts and figures of men whose reputations and performances he respects. He will not succumb to propaganda, but he readily will listen to reason.

PLUMMER SLAPS AT PACIFIST EFFORTS

More Dangerous Than Bolshevism, He Tells Green Bay Military Men

Scoring pacifism and pacifistic speakers as more dangerous to the National Defense act and the future of the country than communism and bolshevism, Mr. L. Plummer, national executive committeeman of the American legion for Wisconsin, told members of the Green Bay and Fox River Valley chapters of the Reserve Officers association Wednesday evening at Green Bay, that defense of the land is the duty of every citizen.

Mr. Plummer, a reserve officer, was the guest of honor and speaker at an officers' mess and monthly meeting of the Green Bay chapter at the Beaumont Hotel. The Valley chapter composed of Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and New London reserve officers was invited to attend.

Mr. Plummer reviewed the National Defense act of 1920 and told how through lack of appropriations and support in congress it was neglected and was not carried out. The failure of congress to pass a sufficient appropriation bill had cut down the army when it should have been strengthened.

The Citizens Military Training camp is the greatest thing now in existence to teach civilians the value of real citizenship, he said.

Appleton officers at the meeting were Capt. E. F. Grundeman, Lieut. P. O. Ketcher, Capt. J. K. Campbell, and Capt. Plummer. Col. P. J. Schuller of Neenah, commander of the Sixth district of the legion also attended. Final arrangements for a military ball to be held early in May were completed but no definite date was set. Other important reserve officers matters were discussed.

PAINT "APPLETON" SIGN AS GUIDE TO FLYERS

Flyers who come to Appleton will be added by members of the Appleton high school aviation club. It has decided at a meeting of the group Wednesday at the school. Meetings of the club will be continued through the summer. When assistance may be given to flyers the members will be ready to give it, Robert Shepherd, president of the group, said.

Three members of the club plan to take up flying this summer. It was said, but their names have not been announced.

Work of painting a sign "Appleton" on the roof of the high school building to aid flyers in locating the city when they were passing over was started Saturday. Letters in the sign are 17 feet high and are painted in white. They are against a black background.

The piano was invented about 1710 by Bartolomeo di Francesco Cristofori an Italian.

BUTTE DES MORTS OPENS ON SATURDAY

Walsh Returns and Course Is Ready for Playing on Temporary Greens

Butte des Morts Country club will be open for play on temporary greens on Saturday afternoon, according to D. P. Steinberg, chairman of the greens committee. Considerable tilling has been done on the course this spring and unless there are heavy rains this week it will be open regularly from Saturday on. The course is in excellent shape, Mr. Steinberg said.

Frank Walsh, club professional, returned Wednesday from a successful winter of competition in the west and south. He will be at Butte des Morts in the morning and until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, after which he will be at the Butler club.

Children of members of the club between the ages of 12 and 21 are eligible as junior members. Women who are neither wives nor daughters of members, under 21 years of age, can become associate members by paying the same dues as regular members. Stock ownership is not required, officers said.

The Winneconne Land Co. has adopted a new policy in selling its stock, according to A. H. Krugmeier, president. It is selling at $250, but a down payment only is required. The balance can be paid at stated intervals.

NASH

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

15 extra hours on the NASH motor to be certain it is right

The illustration shows two Nash Advanced Six engines hooked together in the great Nash testing room.

One of these motors is driving the other, to limber it up. After a few hours of this, the motor now being driven will limber up another.

Then, after 8 to 10 hours on its own power, it will be taken apart. Bearings, connecting rods and pistons carefully inspected. Valves ground and resealed.

Next, the trained ear of an engine expert will listen to the operation of this motor. When he is sure it is absolutely right, it will be mounted on its chassis. Then another rigid examination, in the car, out on the road. 15 extra hours in all are consumed before the motors shown above are ready for their owners.

How easily Nash could save this time and expense. You would never be able to see the difference.

But every Nash owner knows there is a difference!

There are extra hours of extra care in every Nash, to lift it above the level of the average car—to be certain Nash performance leads the world!

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The annual league forensic contest, in which high schools of Clintonville, Wittenberg and New London, took part, was held at the auditorium of the Clintonville high school Thursday evening. The afternoon program opened at 2:30 with selections played by the New London high school band. There were six contestants in the oratorical contest. Marcus Plant of New London high school, won first place. His selection was "The Defense of Youth." Second place was won by Francis Zern of Clintonville, who delivered "Behold the American." Howard Carmany of Wittenberg, with the subject "The Eighteenth Amendment," captured third place. Following this contest, Miss Elsie Rosch of Clintonville, entertained the audience with a piano solo.

Miss Dorothy Bentz of New London, was awarded first place in the contest in extemporaneous reading from the selection "Gloriana." Miss Elizabeth Garot of New London, reading from the selection, "A Wayside Comedy," was awarded second place and Milton Bailey of Wittenberg, won third place, his selection being "The House Surgeon." Each contestant was allowed to choose one from five selections and was given one hour in which to prepare for the contest. Five minutes was allowed each reader in the contest.

The New London high school band entertained the assemblage at the opening program and added much during both afternoon and evening to the enjoyment of the days program as well as to the spirit of the occasion.

EXTEMPORANEOUS SPEAKERS
In the extemporaneous speaking contest New London's two representatives were the only winners. Marcus Plant gave a five minute talk on "The Chinese Situation" and William Deacy spoke on "A Third Term for President Coolidge."

The judges announced no decision. Preparation for this contest is similar to that of the Extemporaneous reading contest.

Miss Dorothy Bentz of New London, won first place in the declamatory contest, giving the selection "George Washington." Miss Betty Garot of New London, rendering "Ice Water, Please," captured second, and Miss Gladys Schoenick of Clintonville, was given third place, her selection being entitled "The Cremation of Sam McGee."

Special numbers during the evening numbered a vocal selection by Ralph Ziemer of Clintonville, and the Clintonville high school girls' glee club. Judges in all contests included Miss Mary Helen Keating, instructor in English and public speaking at the Andigo high school; Miss Ruth McKennon, instructor in public speaking and expression in the Appleton high school, and A. Karnes, director of industrial education at the Oshkosh Normal school.

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—New London's high school band is now three years old, having been organized through the efforts of its present instructor and director Alfred Schumann, principal of the junior high school. The band, numbering 40 pieces of regular standard, also has a reserve of twenty young musicians who probably will be added to the band next year. Besides the band, Mr. Schumann directs a school orchestra of 25 members, fourteen of whom are violinists. The orchestra also is in its third year. A junior orchestra of 20 members and a guitar and mandolin club of 15 members also add interest to school activities.

The school has a number of free instruments for use by students. Most of them were bought by their own instruments, and few of them, once joining musical bodies, ever drop out during their time in school. Existing talent receives Mr. Schumann's entire attention, and he gives private lessons merely for the sake of the youth in which he finds himself interested. Mr. Schumann received his own musical education at La Crosse normal and Ripon college.

The band turns out for many public affairs wearing their dress uniforms of crimson and white, the school's colors. White caps are faced with crimson satin, and visored caps have bands of the same color.

TO GIVE JOINT PROGRAM
The junior and senior glee clubs of the local public school will appear in concert with the high school band in a spring festival concert to be given under the direction of Miss Eugenie Bittner, instructor of music in the grade school and Mr. Schumann. The concert will be presented at the Grand theatre on the evening of April 22. Both faculty members and students hope to interest the public in this concert, since all the organizations engaged in the presentation of the musical evening have given freely of their talent for various organizations of the city.

Both Miss Bittner and Mr. Schumann have done much in bringing into the talent of the schools of the city, and the glee clubs as well as the band, have been organized and gradually shaped into such an excellent performance as to be a pride to the citizens of New London.

TEACHES APPRECIATION
The glee club with Miss Bittner in charge will sing selections from the work of such musical composers as Gounod and MacDowell. One of the chief aims in the mind of the director has been a fine appreciation of better music. As an example of this one selection sung will be "Amaryllis," a gavotte type of the old English style. This delicate song is an antique among the musical gems enjoyed today, since it was composed before the region of King Louis, in 1581. It is a stately dance which in ancient days was used in picturesque court appearances.

Miss Bittner is a graduate of Milwaukee Normal, '25, having been a student in the musical department there. Her two years of work among the students of the local schools has resulted in the uncovering of much splendid talent, and Miss Bittner has given much of her time outside of regular hours in training of groups, the strengthening of individual talent and the blending of voices as they will appear in concert.

Nolan Evenson Receives
Broken Rib and Possible Internal Injuries

Special to Post-Crescent
Weyauwega—Sunday afternoon as Nolan Evenson of Sheridan, his brother-in-law from Milwaukee, and two other men from Sheridan were going to Gills Landing to fish, when about two miles east of Weyauwega, the radius of their automobile broke, and there car went into the ditch, turning completely over. Mr. Evenson who was driving, received a broken rib, and internal injuries.

He was taken to the hospital at Waupaca by Dr. E. H. Jones. Mr. Evenson, who is about 45 years old, has a family.

A "Pioneer Day" celebration was held Friday afternoon in Poyssippi at the Hawley hotel, which was attended by over one hundred of the townspeople.

It was in the nature of a birthday party, in honor of the two surviving veterans of the Civil War, John McGregor and Fred Hawley, and the two widows of veterans, Mrs. Ellen Holsworth and Mrs. Ann Wendt, who are the four oldest settlers in that locality. Papers were read telling of the old buildings there, and histories of the old churches and schools. A program also was given by the school children, followed by several vocal solos by Rev. William Marsh, and a reading by Mrs. E. Stratton. Refreshments were served.

A number of papers which had been prepared could not be read for lack of time, so it was decided to hold another similar meeting at Gordon's hall, at a later date.

Members of the Shakespeare club held their banquet Monday evening at Hotel Delevan, Waupaca. Following the banquet the club went in a body to the theatre.

STAGE And SCREEN

CHAT OFF THE STAGE

Edmund Lowe, who was a matinee idol before he became a real actor in "What Price Glory," has a leaning toward philosophic observation. Here are a few of his recent jottings:

"Calling it the silent drama is a paradox when you realize the number of women anxious to get into it."

"I don't see why some censors object to kissing in the movies so long as the act is screened."

"The way of the transgressor in pictures is a fat pay envelope each week."

"The cinema of the fathers shall be visited by the children."

"A rose by any other name would be changed by the title writers to 'Come the Dawn.'"

"If at first you don't succeed, hire a good press agent."

Edmund Lowe is the humanly rosy Sergeant in the magnificent comedy of war, "What Price Glory," coming to Fischers Appleton theatre one day only, matinee and night, Thursday, April 12.

LATEST FILM, "GOD GAVE ME TWENTY CENTS," HIGHLY PRAISED

With a comedy cycle now seeming to hold sway in cinema circles, it is still refreshing to hear the coming of a worthy drama. Such a picture is Herbert Brenon's latest Paramount production, "God Gave Me Twenty Cents," which arrives at Fischers Appleton Theatre today Saturday and Sunday, with Lois Moran, Lya de Putti, Jack Mulhall and William Collier Jr. in featured roles.

"God Gave Me Twenty Cents," Dixie Wilson's short story, is the colorful record of a short time in four lives. They were persons who might well have come from the ends of the earth. All were young, but three were old in the ways of the world. The fourth, Mary, was thrown into a vortex created life, and only saved because of her faith and trust.

After having been married less than a week, deliciously happy in her new paradise, she is told that Steve has taken another woman abroad his ship. It is unbelievable, but as the hours pass, her mind starts distorting this awful thought. She sets out for the dock.

There you have one of the most dramatic, poignant episodes ever transferred to the silver screen. "God Gave Me Twenty Cents" is said to begin where most pictures leave off. If it is as good as it is reputed to be, Mr. Brenon will soon be enabled to add another feather to his already overflowing hat.

IF A "KNOCK-OUT" IS A GOOD PICTURE, THEN SEE "BIG PAL"

In "Big Pal" which opens a two day engagement at the New Bijou theatre today, Russell appears as a professional fighter. Mary Carr appears as the devoted mother and performs her role as well as she did in the picture which brought her international fame, "Over the Hill." Others in the cast are Julianne Johnston, "Micky" Bennett and William Bailey.

The story is of the fight ring in which Russell is particularly at home, having been the light heavyweight champion of the amateur ring until a few years ago. He is given fine support and starts off with the benefit of a first rate story.

A young fighter is tempted by crooks to throw a fight. He needs the money and the prestige which they have in their power to give him. But the ideals of his mother are stronger and he wins—both the moral battle and the fight in the ring.

TO OPEN FUR STORE AT HOTEL APPLETON

A new fur store will be opened soon in the former main dining room at Hotel Appleton. Sam Myers, New York, will manage a wholesale and retail fur business there. Remodelling, repainting and manufacturing of fur articles will be done at the store. Mr. Myers formerly was in the wholesale fur business in New York City.

The room is being remodelled and the store will be opened formally when this work has been completed, the manager said.

JOHNS, SLEEPER EDIT BULLETIN FOR KIWANIS

J. L. Johns, district governor of the Wisconsin and upper Michigan Kiwanis district, and L. C. Sleeper, district secretary, are editors of the District Kiwanis Bulletin issued monthly and printed by the Appleton Press. It is customary for district officials to publish this magazine each month while they are in office, and the magazine is printed in the city in which the district governor lives. The first issue under the supervision of Mr. Johns and Mr. Sleeper was issued several weeks ago. The next issue will be ready for mailing in about a week.

No. 14, West should lead the Jack of Clubs.

No. 15, West should lead the Ace of Spades.

No. 16, West should lead the King of Hearts.

No. 17, Against a No-Trump, the hand with only one long suit has only one sound lead.

No. 18, Against a Spade contract, the Jack of Clubs is the best opening; it is a strengthening lead, less apt to be harmful than any other.

No. 19, Against a Club contract, the choice is between the Ace of Spades and the King of Hearts. If East have neither the Ace nor Jack of Hearts, the heart lead is apt to cost a heart trick. The lead of the Ace of Spades allows the leader to determine whether he can obtain the best result by continuing the Spades, or by leading Hearts, Diamonds or Clubs. The Spade lead many, however, set up the adverse Spades, so it is a close choice between it and the King of Hearts; neither is a desirable opening. All who entered the King of Hearts on their answer slip should be credited with a correct answer.

No. 20, Contract No-Trump, partner's suit should be led and the higher of touching honors should be selected.

26 MORE BIRTHS HERE THAN DEATHS IN MARCH

There were 26 more births than deaths in Appleton in March, according to the monthly report of Dr. W. C. Felton, city physician. A total of 57 births were recorded as compared with 40 in the same month in 1926. There were 31 deaths as against 28 in March last year. Dr. Felton treated 36 cases at his office, made 16 home calls and issued 36 burial permits. Twelve marriages were recorded during the month. This is eight more than for the same period in 1926.

12 H. S. STUDENTS GET PINS FOR DEBATE WORK

Debate pins were awarded to 12 members of the Appleton high school debate squad by Adam Aichison, coach at a general assembly meeting Wednesday. Those who studied the question of granting freedom to the Philippines and those who prepared on the need of Appleton for a new senior high school were given the pins. These were: Russell Denyes, Mark Catlin, Beatrice Segal, Aloysius Gage, Ethel Stallman, Jean Cannon, Merle Zuchlik, William Lyons, Everett Stecker, George Beckley, Beatrice Miller and John Frampton. The first six entered the interscholastic meet of the Fox River Valley Debate conference and the others have debated before local audiences.

YANKEES, MACKMEN BATTLE TO WILD 10-INNING DRAW

Huggins Fence Busters Smack Out 14 Hits But Fail To Take 3rd Game

Senators Hold Tie for Top With Yanks Through Thursday's Hurling

The thumping New York Yankees polished Friday night's draw with the Senators. They had their first setback in the current American League season Thursday. Nine runs of 14 hits couldn't win for the Yankees against Philadelphia. The Athletics, after two severe defeats fought out a 9 and 9 draw with Huggins' men in a 10-inning scrap. Four pitchers toiled each camp. Sammy Hale clicked off four nice hits for A's and almost in left defense caught a whizzing liner from Lou Gehrig's bat in the eighth that would have broken up the game and probably Sammy's career. He had missed it. The Washington Senators, who had Speaker's bat muted, climbed all over the Boston Red Sox again, 5 to 2, and stayed right up at the head of the American procession with the Yankees. Each team has won two games and lost none. Hollis, the pitcher, turned in a nice hurling exhibition holding Boston to four singles. Cleveland had but one big inning against Chicago but it was enough to win, 3-2. Detroit and St. Louis were rained out.

Two uprisings featured the day in the National League, with Philadelphia overcoming the Giants 2 to 6, and the Braves over the Cincinnati Reds 7 to 2. Pittsburgh Pirates kept the lead with a record of two wins and no losses by scuttling the Cincinnati ship again, 6 to 2, but the little favored Braves now are found in second place, a dazzling spot for a team that has experts to finish among the also rans.

The Boston victory was due in large measure to the cool hurling of Foster Edwards, sorely-topped Dartmouth graduate, who only two seasons ago was pitching to the tune of "Wa Hoo Wahs." The Dodgers found him for only six hits. Jack Scott, erstwhile member of clammy matts in the Philly Victory while four Giant twirlers all looked alike to McNinn's followers. Chilly weather prevented the St. Louis-Chicago contest.

WALTER HAGEN TELLS PROS OF "WONDERFUL" LOCAL GOLF COURSE

Unsolicited praise of the highest type for the Butte des Morts Country club from one of the "world's" greatest golfers and the king of pro club swingers was voiced in the presence of Frank Walsh, pro of the local club, early this month in Atlanta, Ga. The praise came from the lips of none other than Walter Hagen, the ace of golfers, and was delivered without questioning before the greatest pros of the country.

Sir Walter had a suite of rooms with Gene Sarazen at Atlanta during the recent Southern open in which Walsh finished high. Clustered around the great golfer was Tommy Armour, Bobby Cruikshank, Sarazen and others of like fame. When Sir Walter without apparent provocation expressed his view.

"You know fellows, the best and most interesting course I ever played over was at Appleton, Wis., the Butte des Morts club." He did not see Walsh in a far corner of the room at the time, examining some equipment, so that the compliment was especially fine. Finally seeing Frank, he turned to the local man and said:

"I'll bet you never get tired of playing that course, do you Frank?" while all the other stars turned to listen.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

The Valley league baseball team will be playing well along into the football season, according to the schedule which was made public on Thursday. The final games are not booked until Oct. 16. With this late date, there won't be much time for a series to decide the state home product honors.

HIGH STATE RELAY MEN AFTER RECORDS

Relaying Crew Has Crack Team in Quarter, Half Mile Relay Events

East Lansing, Mich. — Michigan State's relay team is out to establish a new college record in the quarter and half-mile relays at Ohio State on April 23.

The East Lansing team, quite popular up here for their showing in the State and Rice relays, feel that they have a good chance to set new time marks in the two events.

The team captured 16 gold watches and two team trophies and set four relay meet records during its visit to Texas. Its best performance was in the 440-yard race, which was negotiated in 42.3, just three-tenths of a second shy of the national college record.

Captain Fred Alderman, who holds the Western conference record for the 200-yard dash and his tie for the 200-yard dash is the backbone of the relay outfit.

The only other experienced runner on the team is Edna Grim, who has a tie for the 100-yard dash. Other members of the team are Hanson, Lang and Kroll, all sophomores.

This team looms as one of the strongest in the country today. Southern California's relay aggregation, headed by the speedy Charlie Borah, appears to be the only institution able to be a threat to the Michigan team.

PURDUE, CHICAGO OPEN BIG TEN DIAMOND YEAR

Chicago, Ill. — Spring training camps to the south for nearly all the Big Ten universities have been polished up conference lines for the opening of the baseball season. Purdue and Chicago stage the curtain raiser Saturday while six more games are scheduled for the following weekend. Minnesota, with a short list of conference contests will be the last to get in action, with its initial games April 26.

The champion Michigan team, according to practice showings has sophomore material good enough to crowd out some of last year's veterans. Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin also have turned in promising practice games. Chicago's southern trip provided a fairly good record, but Wally Marks, star twirler has been declared ineligible. Northwestern's first southern trip was mostly filled with defeats by southern universities.

Purdue, which finished third in the conference standing last year, will have five veterans for Saturday's game, though "Cotton" Wilcox's loss may keep him out of the opener.

LITTLE CHUTE R. N. A. TO ATTEND APPLETON MEET

Little Chute — Little Chute high school will place a baseball team in the field this spring. It was decided Wednesday at a meeting of interested athletes at the school. Robert J. Versteegen was elected captain and Emil Van Dyke was chosen manager. Practice will begin early next week. Twenty candidates for the team reported at Wednesday's meeting.

The material on the whole is inexperienced but should round into fair form. Paul Kestice is coaching the team. The schedule is rapidly filling but there will be a few open dates.

WEST TRACK TEAMS WILL NOT GO EAST

Pacific Intercollegiate Finally Give Westerners Big Meet of Own

Los Angeles, Calif. — The Pacific Intercollegiate to be staged here early in June presages the time when track teams of far western colleges will be absent from the larger meets in the east and middle west.

Western track fans, who have clamored for a big meet of their own, feel that this meet will in time rank in importance with the I. C. A. A. staged at Cambridge, Mass., and Philadelphia in alternate years and the N. C. A. A. staged annually at Stagg Field, Chicago.

The cost of sending twelve to fifteen men to the larger eastern meets and the cry for a meet on the Pacific coast explain why Pacific coast teams may desert the big eastern meets.

California's Big Three — Stanford, California and Southern California — have ran things their own way in recent years in the east, while the Oregon Aggies have proved winners in the middle west.

The Aggies have already cast their lot solely with the Pacific coast meet, while it has not been definitely decided whether California's Big Three will journey to the east this season.

They probably will. Southern California and Stanford, who finished first and second last year, feel duty-bound to attend. California's Bears, having three legs on the trophy, wish to obtain permanent possession of it.

But some day, the track teams of the Pacific coast may let eastern and middle-western teams decide their own championships without fear of being outdone.

BOXING CLUB CHANGES DATE OF FIGHT CARD

Inability to come to terms with some of the leading scrappers for the second 1927 boxing show of the Appleton Athletic club has caused the club to postpone the card from Thursday evening, April 21. The card will be postponed from ten days to two weeks, according to club officials.

An attempt had been made to secure the greatest windup bouts ever staged here, with Joey Sangor, Milwaukee's favorite and a contender for Sammy Mandell's crown, matched with an ancient, hard-hitting foe in Pete Sarmiento, the Filipino flash, and Phil Zwick, Kaukauna's pride, against Joey Thomas, the class of Chicago at his weight. However, other tentative dates for big scraps made by Sangor and Sarmiento earlier in the year and inability to come to terms spelled the main blow. An attempt will be made to line up the same pair for the postponed card.

Card Ball Players Back To Cold From Sunny South

Madison — (P) — Brisk winds of Wisconsin have had a "cold shower bath" effect upon Coach Guy Lowman's baseball team, following their southern training trip under the fairest of skies.

Heavy sweaters and wool lined training shirts have been brought back into the equipment regalia of the diamond athlete but "working under wraps" has not slowed down the "Sparkling Cardinals."

Sore muscles and obstinate charley horses warmed and relaxed by a hot Dixie sun are responding against the reaction of a colder playing season with results which have brought a slow smile to Lowman's lips. The southern sojourn luckily proved neither too short to be effective nor too long to allow a "lacadastical" style of baseball.

Veterans bolster the nine and several second men add the necessary personnel to make the Badgers one of the outstanding teams in the conference this year.

The entire squad has had little difficulty in poling long drives around

No changes were made among leaders in the first annual bowling tournament of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion Thursday evening at Elk alleys, and the leading teams settled down to await the final day of the meet on Sunday, the last chance for any of the top notchers to be displaced. Thursday evening Appleton and Menasha five man teams and Menasha single and doubles were on the drives. After two days of rest, Friday and Saturday, Sunday will see Whitewater and Sturgeon Bay pinmen completing the meet-in-all three events.

In the five-man event Thursday the Fountain Grills of Menasha rolled high score of 2712, a good mark. The Miller Specials, a Booster team, had a 2411. In the singles D. Mayhew was high with 556 and in the doubles, Mayhew and E. Osterstag lead with 1113.

The INSIDE OF BASEBALL

BY BILLY EVANS

1. Who is credited with having originated baseball?
2. When and where was it first played?
3. How many bases were there?
4. What was the distance between them?
5. How were the players retired?

THIS TELLS IT

1. Abner Doubleday, then a major general in the United States army.
2. Cooperstown, N. Y., in 1838.
3. Anywhere from 80 to 100 feet as agreed upon before starting.
4. By being hit with the ball before reaching the base to which they were advancing.

FRENCH BOXING METHOD FALLING INTO DISFAVOR

Paris — (P) — LaSavate, French boxing in which both feet and gloves are used, is losing ground because it is too dangerous. Its supporters contend that boxing should be exactly of the nature of street fighting. A ruffian they point out does not obey ring rules and the art of self-defense ought to equip a man to meet realities.

Greatest Batsman Of Last 25 Years Is Cobb

BY BILLY EVANS

The greatest batsman of the last 25 years, every phase of the game considered — my nomination is Tyus Raymond Cobb, generally considered the greatest ball player of all time.

Babe Ruth gets more distance to his drives than Ty Cobb ever did, but there alone has Ruth the edge on Cobb as a batter.

Willie Keeler was a better bunter than Cobb, perhaps a trifle more scientific in his actions around the plate, but there alone did "Wee Willie" have the edge on Ty.

Hornsby, Wagner, Lajoie and Jackson consistently got more power behind their drives than Cobb, but in that feature alone was their hitting superior to the George Peach.

Slater, Speaker, Roush and Collins are much the same style batsmen as Cobb, but despite their greatness, Cobb must be rated as superior batsman, all things considered.

A left-handed batsman is supposed to have an advantage because of hitting from that side of the plate, thereby gaining perhaps a step in the run from the plate to first base. That one step often makes a base hit for a left hander that would have been just an out for a right hander.

Cobb is a left-hander, better and there was no faster man in the game when he was in his prime. His extraordinary speed won for him many a base hit that slower men would have lost.

Cobb was an extraordinary bunter and for that reason had the opposing infield constantly in doubt as to his intention, which was a material advantage. It was unusual for Cobb to fake a bunt, purposely missing the ball to draw the infield in and then come right back by hitting the ball through.

At dragging the ball, a sort of a push bunt, the intent being to get the ball past the pitcher, thereby making it almost impossible for any infielder to make a play on the ball, he also starred.

While Cobb never was noted as a home-run hitter and lacks the terrific driving power of Babe Ruth, his swing was far from that of a weakling and his batting records contain a goodly number of doubles and triples. True, his great speed turned many a single into a double and double into a triple, but somehow he got there.

A keen eye and a master mind supplemented the remarkable batting ability possessed by Cobb which was topped off by a sublime confidence in his superiority. Cobb always conveyed the impression that every pitcher feared Cobb as a batsman more than Cobb feared him as a pitcher and such was invariably the case.

In his entire career of 22 years as an American Leaguer, only in one game has any pitcher completely dominated Cobb. It happened to be calling balls and strikes in that game while "Doc" White, then a star southpaw with the Chicago White Sox, did the mystifying.

Believe it or not, Cobb struck out four times in that ball game and as I remember, he didn't make so much as a healthy foul. In the ninth inning Freddy Payne substituted for him, the only time during his career that Cobb was removed from a game because of inability to bat.

However, "Doc" White has since told me that Cobb made him suffer plenty for the field day he once had at the Georgia Peach's expense.

All things considered, Cobb must be rated as the master batsman of the last 25 years.

BLUE TANK SQUAD TAKES FIRST MEET BY SINGLE POINT

Lawrence Swimmers Squeeze
Out 30-29 Victory Over
Green Bay Y Team

By the narrow margin of just one point Lawrence college tankmen splashed their way to victory Thursday evening in their first dual meet of the season with the Green Bay Y. M. C. A. at the local association tank. The Blues won 30-29. Neither team made a clean sweep of any event during the meet, Lawrence coming the closest with 8 to 3 by a first and second in diving. This gave the Blues a good lead with but one event left, the relay, but Green Bay capped this to take five points to none for Lawrence and pull up to one point from victory. Each team took three firsts. In six events, but the Blues counted four seconds of six. Lawrence lead from the first event but the margin was exceptionally close, from two to four points separating the teams until the third event from the finish, the 220 free style. Here Green Bay took a two-point lead which was taken away again with the near-slam for Lawrence in the diving. Sargent of Green Bay was individual high point man with two first in the 40 and 100-yard free style races, for 10 points. For Lawrence LeFevre was high with seven points, two seconds and a third. Green Bay won the relay race by two inches. On the Bay team were Sargent, W. Hanrahan, Franssens and Hadley. For Lawrence, Klein, Hoffman, LeFevre and Ellis performed. Hoffman, Montague and McInnis scored Blue firsts. Judges for the meet were Everett Wright, A. P. Jensen, Don Gebhardt and G. Christoph. Gebhardt is the Blue swim coach.

Features of the meet were the 100-yard dash and the relay. In the 100-yard dash, Sargent of Green Bay won by a wide margin. Lawrence in a final spurt by the proverbial "nose" in an exciting finish winning by about two inches. The same was true in the relay where Lawrence firsts three men led and then Sargent pulled a great spurt to beat Klein to the tape by the same distance. Saturday the Blues swim a return match at the Bay Y tank with the Bay Triangles.

ROOSEVELT HIGH WINS FIRST SOFTBALL GAME

Coach William Pickett's Roosevelt Junior high school softball team opened the race for the Appleton city junior high title Thursday afternoon by trouncing the McKinley high team at Roosevelt grounds, 15-2. Roosevelt did not make an error the entire game, while pounding the offerings of several Wilson hurlers all over the lot. Rhoads featured the Red and Grey attack with a home run. Rhoads and Knep formed the battery for the winners. The Roosevelt school already has two of the major titles of the junior high league for the year, winning in both football and basketball.

The remainder of the softball schedule sends Roosevelt against Wilson at Wilson field on April 21; Wilson vs McKinley on April 28; Roosevelt vs McKinley at McKinley on May 5; Wilson vs McKinley on May 12 and Roosevelt grounds in what probably will be the deciding game on May 19. On May 21 the interschool track and field meet for the 1927 junior high title will be held.

PASS PETITIONS ASKING CITY TO PURCHASE RAVINE

Property Is Believed to Be Suitable Site for New City Hall

Several petitions requesting the common council to purchase the ravine between N. Superior and N. Walnut streets adjacent to W. College-ave for municipal purposes are being circulated throughout the city. A group of men who favor the erection of a city hall at this point are behind the movement, it is understood.

Sometime ago Alderman Wenzel Hasmann of the Fifth ward expressed himself as favoring this project. His plan was to build a structure that would house all the city offices. The water works department and heating system would be established in two subbasements.

There has been considerable agitation for many years to have the city purchase this property for municipal purposes but circulation of the petitions is said to be the most definite step taken in the matter. Some aldermen view the plan with favor, while others are opposed to it.

The need for larger municipal building has been felt for some time, it is said. T. H. Ryan, president of the library board in a public address some time ago, outlined the needs of the public library for more room. Under Alderman Hasmann's plan the library would be given the entire building now occupied jointly by it and the city hall offices.

Hasmann's plan includes a large municipal auditorium on the first floor which could be used for public meetings. He would have the city construct the building in such man-

34 SENIORS SEEK OFFICE POSITIONS

Seven Appleton High School Students Will Enter Lawrence College

Office work will be followed by 24 of the 135 seniors to graduate from Appleton high school this spring, according to the results of conferences between each member of the class and H. H. Heible, principal. Lawrence college will claim 27. Seven seniors plan to go to the University of Wisconsin and six to Marquette university. Others who intend to enter college have not decided which school will be chosen.

Teaching and nursing are popular professions, according to the report, which shows 18 teaching prospects and 13 nurses. Journalism will be pursued ner that more stories could be added as the need for them was felt. It is understood that the petitions are meeting with favor in some parts of the city and that there are many signatures being attached to them. The petitions probably will be presented at some future meeting of the new council. They only ask the city to purchase the land for municipal purposes.

by five seniors, four of whom have been on the staff of the high school paper. Medicine will take five, and law, four students. Music will be studied by four students, dramatics by two, advertising by two, mining engineering by one, mechanics by one, electrical engineering by two, forestry by two, ministry by one, missionary work by one, scientific research by one. Others have not definitely decided about what work they will enter.

Courses studied by the seniors were: Commercial by 56; college preparatory, 51; general course, 24; home arts, 18; manual arts, 28; Latin, six; and science, seven.

LAWRENCE "Y" MEN GO TO CONFERENCE

Five members of the Lawrence college Y. M. C. A. will leave Saturday to attend the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet Training school from April 15 to 17. Dr. J. R. Denyes of the missions department at the school, Elmer F. Ott of Kaukauna, president of the association, Ervin C. Marquardt of Wausau, James E. Platts of Fond du Lac, and Carl H. Engler of Appleton, will represent the college. Among the Y. M. C. A. workers to be at the school are "Dad" Elliott and P. H. McKee.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
GARRETT FOLSON is stabbed to death while swimming at Town, N. J. It is believed that the death weapon was a pichag, an Oriental knife, and that it was purchased on the boardwalk.

Folson's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA VALDON.

ANASTASIA FOLSON, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command, and it is established that one CROYDON SEARS is a fancier of curious weapons. Sears admits buying two knives, but not the pichag.

Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. Dan Pelton, Folson's nephew, arrives and is puzzled by the curious French dolls in his uncle's rooms.

Croydon Sears sends for FLEMING STONE, famous detective. He tells him Folson had been black mailing him and he had fled at the instant but was innocent.

Stone meets others of the circle, including NED BARRON and his wife, MADELINE, who puzzles him.

ROBIN SEARS, son of Croydon, is surprised when Stone mentions the dolls Folson had owned.

Later, Stone, after talking to ROSS, the dead man's valet, questions a bellboy, who says Folson, on his arrival at the hotel, had seemed to recognize the Barrons and the Sears.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLVI

"Well, I don't know anything about that," said the fat bellboy, "but Folson waited over for another car while he looked at them. They didn't see him; they were laughing and talking together, but he couldn't 'a' been more kerfummuxed if he'd seen the Old Nick himself."

"Was he unpleasantly surprised?" "I don't think so, sir. He didn't seem either glad or sorry, especially, only just struck. That's all."

"Well, that doesn't seem to amount to much," Stone sighed wearily. "Hello, here's Myrtle. We seem to get clean towels every hour on the hour."

"That isn't why Myrt shows up so frequently," Tubby said, and, laughing, he went away.

"Myrtle," the detective said to the chambermaid, "I suppose you know nothing of Mr. Folson that you haven't told, do you?"

"Not a spick-speck," declared the girl. "Wish I did. I'd be rich if I could answer the questions that's been fired at me ever since the poor man died."

"He was nice to you?" "He was a gentleman, Mr. Folson was. He was nice. If you mean generous with his money and polite-mannered. But if you mean anything like petting or silly talk, no."

"Still, you only say him once or twice?" "That's all sir, but we girls size up a man in less time than that. And Mr. Folson, he wasn't the sort to be silly that way. The only silly ways he had was this doll racket."

She looked around at the dolls, still scattered about the room, and going to one of them changed its position to what she deemed a more picturesque pose.

"You're fond of them?" Stone said, as she fingered the short skirts and long slim legs of the doll.

"I love 'em," she declared. "As a baby I was always about dolls. I had dozens of them, though none, of course, except cheap ones. And even as I grew older I didn't outgrow my love for dolls. Then, a few years ago, these began to be the rage. I have two or three, but they are not the expensive kind like these. You know, they make imitations that are quite dear, but nothing of this sort is made over here. These are all French dolls, or imported ones, anyway."

As Myrtle talked, she caressed and played with the dolls, and Stone watched her curiously.

Yet it was only the admiration of a child who loved dolls, mingled with the natural feminine delight in exquisite fabrics and harmonious colors.

"Pelton gave you one of these dolls, I hear," he said. "Was it as pretty as these?"

"Beautiful!" Myrtle turned rapt eyes to him. "It was the one Mr. Folson loved best. Mr. Pelton let me take my choice and so I took that one. Oh, it's beautiful."

"Will you let me see it, Myrtle? Where is it?" "In my room. Yes sir, I'll get it." She went away and returned with the doll.

"This is my hour off," she explained. "Mr. Pelton said he didn't mind if I came in here and played with the dolls, so long as I don't touch anything else. This is the one he gave me. Isn't she lovely?"

Fleming Stone took the doll in his hands and stared at it.

For a moment he was speechless. "Did you tell me this was Mr. Folson's favorite?"

"Yes, sir. I think it reminded him of somebody he loved. For he talked to it and said: 'You're mine—you shall be mine again—and forever!' or some such words as that. Oh, yes, he loved this one best."

And Stone saw that the doll was the very image of Madeline Barron.

"Go away now, Myrtle," Stone said, speaking, as she said afterward, like a man in a dream. "Go away Myrtle. Here, take your doll. I daresay Mr. Pelton will give you another. If he doesn't I will. But go away now."

Myrtle glanced at him sharply. What had happened? This man was not the sort to have sudden fits of illness, nor did he look ill.

But there was no choice for her. Stone said so, and she went. Then Fleming Stone began to piece things together.

Garrett Folson had dolls who looked like the women he had loved. The one he had declared he loved best was the exact image of Madeline Barron.

Moreover, Folson had declared that this doll, the one that looked like Mrs. Barron, was his best love, and that he would yet have her for his own again.

This implied that he had formerly loved her and—

Where was it all leading?

Clearly, Myrtle had never connected the appearance of this doll with the beautiful Mrs. Barron. But then, Myrtle doubtless did not know Madeline. The Barrons' rooms were not on Myrtle's floor and the girl had no way of seeing her, as her duties never took her to the lounge or dining room.

Tubby might perceive the resemblance, but a boy would not notice such things.

For a moment Stone was so shocked, so upset by the vistas opening before his troubled imagination, that he was tempted to call Myrtle back, buy the doll from her and burn it up.

Yet he could not, in honesty, suppress such a definite lead.

He shrank from the job of piecing things together, but it had to be done. First he thought up everything he knew about Madeline Barron. It wasn't much, but it was definite.

To begin with, he remembered her unwillingness to talk on the subject of Folson's death. When he had asked her a few simple questions about it, she had become so nervously excited as to be almost hysterical.

Then, when he had taxed her with this, she had declared it was because she was sympathetic with Folson's sister and nephew. But further probing had brought out an assertion that her unrest was because of worry lest Croydon Sears be suspected of the crime.

Then, too, she had stated that she had absolutely no acquaintance with Garrett Folson, and knew nothing of him save what she had heard since his tragic death. She had deeply resented his queries, so deeply that it began now to seem she could scarcely have been so annoyed at inquiries about a real stranger.

Well, none of this meant much, but it all went to prove that Madeline Barron had a secret trouble that was not shared by her husband or her nearest friends.

Anyway, it had to be looked into, would turn out to mean nothing and the doll's resemblance to the lady be the merest chance.

A brisk hike on the boardwalk seemed to be indicated, and with a sigh Stone went out to take it.

As he passed the squad of empty chairs at the great hotel entrance a sudden thought struck him.

He turned to the group of idle but alertly watchful chair-pushers, and said:

"Listen sharp here, boys. Did any of you take Mr. Folson out in a chair the night he was here? You know, the man who was killed in the ocean."

"None," and "No, sir," came from various disinterested hearers, and Stone was about to go on his way when the sight of his hand suggestively in his pocket stirred the memory of one of the pushmen.

"I say, Boss," he volunteered, "that Mr. Folson, he didn't go out in no chair that night, but he came home in one."

What? Stone's hand sank deeper in his pocket and some coins clinked pleasantly. "Don't make up anything, now, that won't do."

"No sir," and the earnest voice belatedly truth, "but that gentleman, he came right here to this door, about the middle of the evening. Say 'bout ten o'clock."

"Was he alone?" "Yes, sir, all alone."

"There's a dollar, my man, and if you can find for me the chair man who brought him here, I'll double it."

(To Be Continued)

Why did Madeline Barron deny knowing Folson? And why did Folson have a doll in her image? Stone is nearing the solution now.

Can April Work Motor Miracles?

WITH the frost out of the air and the motor freed from cold oil-stiffness, poor cheapened gas may lose enough of its starting stubbornness to claim summer usability.

But there's no magic in the thermometer's trivial jumps. Poor fuel's kerosenish heaviness that so stubbornly resisted the spark in cold weather, is still there—unabated—to threaten your bearings with its unburned drip.

This year, as never before in gasoline history

RURAL SCHOOLS TO PRESENT PAGEANT AT COMMENCEMENT

Exercises Will Be Conducted in Appleton on or Before June 4

Featured by a pageant in which students from all parts of the country will participate, rural school commencement exercises will be conducted in Appleton on or before Saturday, June 4. It is announced by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools. The exact date and the place in which the exercises will be held will be announced shortly by Mr. Meating.

Each section of the country will develop its own part in the pageant so far as possible. Sectional chairmen who will supervise the preparatory work have been announced by Mr. Meating. They are:

Martha Van Susteren, Deer Creek; Marion Tuttle, Cleora and Maine; Solma Swails, Seymour, district 3 Cleora; and districts 3 and 7 joint, Onondaga; Elbert Peake, Maple Creek, Liberty; Edwin district 6 joint, Arlington; district 9 joint, Ellington; Bernice White Black Creek, except district 3 joint; Warrine Sherman, Osborn, district 3 joint Black Creek, district 5 joint Freedom; E. Obaraka Freedom, districts 2, 4, and 1 joint Onondaga; district 6 joint Osborn, and Kaukauna; Constance Hoolihan, Vandenberg; Buchanan; Beatrice Dunleavy, Dale; Hortonia; Marion Hodgins, Ellington, except district 9 joint; Luella Orf, Center; Florence Keating, Grand Chute; Leone Courtois, Greenville.

Final examinations for rural school pupils in the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades will be held on Saturday, May 14, and Saturday, May 21, according to Mr. Meating.

Examinations will be conducted at Deer Creek, Hortonville, Appleton and Kaukauna on May 14. On the following Saturday they will be held at Black Creek, Seymour and Shiocton. Pupils are expected to attend the nearest examination center.

To be eligible for the examinations, pupils must be of proper age, and have an average of at least 75. Pupils who have not spent two years in the seventh and eighth grades must rank as seventh grade students. They should not expect to enter the ninth grade any than an eighth grade graduate would expect to enter high school as a sophomore, it is pointed out by Mr. Meating.

The pageant to be presented at commencement exercises will be based on "What Men Live By," by Dr. Richard Cabot.

Dr. Cabot designates work, love, play and worship as the four essentials of life. An attempt will be made to visualize by means of a series of stage pictures and action some of the typical aspects of work, love, play and worship.

The pageant will be unified by the use of an interpreting character in the person of an Indian prophet or seer who bewails the passing of his race and the coming of the whites, whose civilization he first observes with perplexity and then with growing understanding and appreciation.

Every school in the county is being urged to prepare a banner to display at the exercises. Directions for making a pennant have been furnished to teachers.

If present plans materialize, this will be one of the most complete and interesting commencement programs ever held in the county, in the opinion of Mr. Meating.

MOTORISTS MUST HAVE LICENSES BY MAY 1

Automobile owners who have not secured their new licenses by May 1 will be arrested and taken into court, George T. Prim, chief of Police, warned Friday. Four months should be ample time for everybody to get a license, according to Chief Prim. The law provides that after this date motorists are subject to arrest for operating their vehicles without licenses.

Attention also was called by the chief to the ordinance prohibiting parking of vehicles in public alleys longer than is absolutely necessary to unload passengers or freight. The ordinance was adopted by the common council last December.

Police recently have merely been warning first offenders, but everybody will be arrested in the future, the chief said.

CRANBERRIES STAY ON MARKETS HERE

More Fresh Vegetables Are Arriving from Southern Gardens

Cranberries and sweet potatoes are still to be found on Appleton markets although the supply usually is exhausted at this time each year, according to local vegetable dealers.

Cranberries retail at from 18 to 22 cents a pound and sweet potatoes at from two to three pounds for 25 cents. New potatoes still remain at two pounds for 25 cents although it is very likely that the price will drop within a short time as new crops begin to reach the market from southern states.

Tomatoes retail at from 30 to 40 cents a pound; rhubarb, 15 cents; turnips, 15 cents; green peas, 35 cents; green and wax beans, 35 cents; horse radish, 30 cents; potatoes, $1 to $1.35 per bushel.

Peppers sell at 10 cents each; cauliflower, 25 to 50 cents; green onions, 10 cents; radishes, 10 cents; carrots, 10 cents; head lettuce, 10 to 15 cents; leaf lettuce, 10 cents; celery, 20 to 25 cents.

COMMITTEE FINDS REPAIRS NECESSARY IN CITY'S SCHOOLS

Survey of School Needs Will Be Completed for May Meeting of School Board

Building of four classrooms at Washington school and installation of a new heating plant at Lincoln school were the major recommendations for 1927 and 1928 made at a meeting of the maintenance committee of the board of education with the superintendent of schools Wednesday afternoon. A complete survey of the schools and their needed repairs will be made by the committee before the May meeting of the board of education and a report made at that time. Dr. Charles Rebeck is chairman of the committee. William Egger and Axel Fahlsstrom, are the other members.

Tiling and leveling of the old circus grounds to be used as an athletic field for Appleton high school will be necessary, it was said. The question of transportation was discussed. The Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co., has offered the use of two buses at a cost of $5 a day, it was announced. There are 56 practice days from Sept. 6 to Nov. 24, making a total transportation cost of $280. The capacity of the buses would be 60.

A storage shed was recommended for Wilson junior high school. The costs, asparagus, 25 to 75 cents; cucumbers, 15 to 35 cents; cabbage, 7 to 9 cents.

Starberries sell at from 25 to 35 cents a box. Pineapples retail at about 60 cents apiece. Grape fruit sells at from 5 to 20 cents apiece.

WILSON COMPANY GETS $147,000 ROAD JOB

The Wilson Construction company of Appleton was awarded a contract to build 5.5 miles of pavement in Sauk County between Saxon City and Plymouth by Sauk County officials this week, according to H. L. Wilson. The contract was let for $147,000. Work is to be started in the next week according to Mr. Wilson. Between 55 and 60 men will be used on the job and it is hoped to have the project completed by Aug. 15.

dressing rooms of the auditorium now are being used for storing the power mower and its equipment because there are no other rooms available with doors large enough for the mower. This is detrimental to the building, it was said, and a new shed could be attached at the back of the building for $220.10.

A concrete platform was suggested for the parking of bicycles at the school. Boys in the manual arts classes could lay the concrete, and the material would cost about $50, it was said.

At the Roosevelt junior high school, a storage room and cement drive leading to it were suggested. The other major repair needed is a draining system for the coal bin as water has been seeping into it.

A girl's shower and dressing room has been asked at the McKinley junior high school. Tiling for the athletic field was recommended.

The playground at the Franklin school needs filling in. Other minor repairs were needed at all of the schools and weather stripping was recommended for the buildings.

John Greenwood, a Continental trooper, supplied George Washington with a full set of teeth carved from a hippopotamus tusk.

RECOVER AUTOMOBILE STOLEN NEAR CHURCH

An Essex coach, owned by L. J. Koltzsch, 517 S. Locust-st., and stolen from its parking place in front of St. Joseph church between 7 and 9 o'clock Thursday night, was recovered about 3:15 Friday morning by Officer William Lockery of the police department. The car was found abandoned on Soldiers-sq. Police are searching for the thief. George T. Prim, chief of police, is inclined to lay the act to boys.

The department was notified Thursday by Sheboygan police of the theft of a Lincoln coupe in that city the preceding night. The car is finished in a brighter green, and carried license D3672, of this year's issue.

A Chrysler sedan was stolen this week at Fond du Lac, according to a report received from the police department of that city. It is a gray colored car, and the license number is D43037, of the 1927 issue.

The Babylonians were the first to use the arch in building.

2,500 DRY JOBS OPEN IN COUNTRY

Civil Service Will Conduct Open Competitive Examinations

A country-wide campaign to fill 2,500 positions in the bureau of prohibition which were classified under the civil service law by the act of March 3, 1927, has been launched by the United States Civil Service Commission. Open competitive examinations will be held for the positions.

The examinations will be practical, each kind especially designed to test the qualifications and fitness of the applicants to perform the particular branch of the work for which that kind of examination is held, the commission has announced.

Examinations will be held in approximately 60 cities for investigators below the senior grade, for agents, and for warehouse watchmen. These will require assembling of competitors in examination rooms for written mental tests. All the examinations will include ratings on training and experience, a searching oral test, and a rigid character investigation made by the commission with the assistance of other government agencies.

Fingerprints will be made of all applicants who attain eligible ratings. These will be used to check the accuracy of the applicant's statements as to arrest, indictment, or conviction for crime or misdemeanor. "The Civil Service commission feels that any person who is worthy of appointment to a position under the bureau of prohibition will not object to the most searching investigation into his past life."

The act bringing these positions into the competitive classified service provides that those now employed who were not appointed in accordance with the civil service law must compete with others in examinations if they wish to have an opportunity to retain their positions.

The following positions are open: One chief of field division, at $6,000 a year; five prohibition zone supervisors, at $5,200 a year; 24 prohibition administrators, at $4,000 to $6,000 a year; 24 assistant prohibition administrators (enforcement work), at $3,300 to $5,200 a year; 50 deputy prohibition administrators, at $3,000 to $4,600 a year; two field office inspectors, at $3,800 to $5,800 a year; four associate field office inspectors, at $3,000 to $3,600 a year; 18 senior prohibition investigators, at $3,800 a year.

ASK SCHOOL HELP DURING ARBOR DAY

Ask Teachers to Plan Special Programs for Presentation April 29

Madison—(AP)—Governor Zimmerman's proclamation of April 24 to 29 as Forest Week and Friday, April 29, as Arbor and Bird Day is being sent "reinforced" to county superintendents Thursday, by the state department of education.

"I wish to reinforce the Governor's recommendation, especially in reference to observance of Arbor and Bird Day by appropriate exercises in the schools of the state," says a letter to the county education heads by John C. Johnson, state Superintendent of Public Instruction. "There is a possibility that this department may be authorized by the legislature to resume publication of an Arbor and Bird day manual after this year," the letter continues.

"In the mean time," it says, "it is suggested that the schools be encouraged to observe the day on April 29 with such public exercises as will best meet the local requirements in the respective communities. It would seem that in most cases it would be suitable to devote the forenoon to a renovation and cleaning of the school premises, tree planting, etc., and the afternoon to a program on bird life and its development and preservation. Topics on reforestation, conservation, etc., will also be appropriate.

"No doubt many of the schools are acting on their own initiative in making preparation for a suitable observance of American Forest Week and Bird Day but a circular from you to the teachers in your jurisdiction will encourage and speed the work along. I trust that you will be governed accordingly insofar as the limited time permits."

NEW LISBON MAN GETS KIEL SCHOOL CONTRACT

W. H. Farley Construction company of New Lisbon was awarded the contract to build the Kiel combined grade and high school Thursday afternoon. Two Appleton firms were among the 19-bidders. They were the Hoffman Construction company and the Appleton Construction company. The contract was awarded for $197,000.

The Valley Construction company of Neenah was awarded the wiring contract for approximately $5,000. There were seven bidders for this work. The Art-Killgren Electric company, Langstadt Electric company and Langstadt-Meyer company of Appleton submitted proposals. John Coppes and George M. Held of Kaukauna and John Miron of Little Chute also submitted bids on the general contract.

Contracts for heating and plumbing were not awarded. Smith and Brandt, architects prepared the plans for the Kiel school. Work is to be started about May 1.

GRASS FIRE FRIGHTENS PEOPLE NEAR HOSPITAL

Residents near St. Elizabeth hospital becoming frightened at a grass fire which was burning in a field south of the hospital early Thursday afternoon, turned in a call to the fire department. Part of the burning grass was smothered by the firemen, but the remainder of the field was left to burn when the firemen were satisfied there was no danger.

The grass was fired by an employee of the city. It was reported to the department. A strong wind from the east fanned the flames and carried clouds of smoke across the street. Persons living there feared that covered sheds in the field had caught fire. A rubbish fire back of Ormsby was reported later in the afternoon. This was not a serious blaze, and on the chief's car answered the call.

SYSTEM! Having put four-year old Shirley to bed, her mother told her she would come upstairs in a little while. Later, on her mother went upstairs and found Shirley still awake. "Mother," wailed Shirley, "my head hurts."

"That's too bad, sympathized mother."

"Yes," answered Shirley, "here I've been holding my hand there all this time so I wouldn't lose the place where it hurts."

WITHIN THE LAW A Fun Shop Drama In Three Acts By Walter H. Kiesling

Act One Scene: A courthouse. Two lawyers, Mr. Brief and Mr. Case, are sitting in the judges ante-room, along with Moses, an elderly darkey.

Brief: "What's the charge in the case the judge is trying now?" Case: "Violation of the Sherman Act."

Brief: "Mose, you're here as a witness. But I'll bet you can't tell me what the Sherman Act was?"

Mose: "Yes, sah. Ah suttinly can. Case: "What was it, then?" Mose: "Judge yoh, honer. Ah'll gladly. Act Two Scene: The same ante-room. Court has recessed. The judge addresses Moses.

Judge: "Mose, what are you up for?" Mose: "Up for a witness, judge, yoh honer."

Judge: "I'd like to have you run over to my house some day soon and fix up the fences. If you do, I'll give you the hogwails when I butcher." Mose: "Judge yoh honer. Ah'll gladly help you out with yoh fence, but since Ah done become Grand Suppiah Monahed ob de lodge, Ah eats a little fattheh back on de hog." Act Three Scene: The court room. Mose is on the witness stand.

Judge: "What was the defendant doing?"

Mose: "Shooting craps." Attorney: "Tell the court exactly how you deal craps."

Mose: "Lemme outa heah! Fust thing, you-all will ask me to drink a san-widge!"

"HERE SHE GOES DREAMING ABOUT HER BOY FRIEND AGAIN!"

Strongheart, the Pup HUNTING

(As it reached THE FUN SHOP Joke Factory) Rev. Jones: "I had a very enjoyable trip to the Adirondacks. The first day I shot two bucks."

Sport (absentmindedly): "Win anything parson?" —Rev. H. F. Slattery.

(And how other FUN SHOP contributors fooled with it) Sanford: "I always hear of hunters of big game going out into the woods and shooting a large buck for food. Now what kind of food can they make out of a big buck?"

Dora: "Buckwheat cakes, maybe." Marie A. Daily.

How He Figured It Dykes: "I went out into the woods and shot a buck."

Monroe: "There are no woods near your place, so how could you shoot a buck?"

Dykes: "What is a buck anyway?" Monroe: "Well, a buck is crap like game is one hundred cents."

Dykes: "Well, dat's what I shot. One hundred cents and I think some- one called it a skunk!" —Froma Isabelle Packard.

H. Minkeberg received $25 for his singles score and also awarded a bowling ball for high single game. Hank's Five, which placed fifth at the tournament, was the recipient of $45. In the doubles P. A. Smith and H. Minkeberg, R. Van Ellis and L. Smith, and E. H. Brewster and A. Bayorgens each received $2. Other winners of money in the singles were E. Wymelberg, $2; E. H. Brewster, $2 and H. Haeckel, $1.50.

Good Fellowship prizes for the five man teams were: Silent Five, $10; Alley Pets, $5. Gordon Mulholland and Arthur Jones received $3.50 good fellowship money in the doubles. E. Haeckel won a prize of $3 in the singles. A. Bayorgens, $2 and R. Van Ellis, $1.11.

KAUKAUNA MARKSMEN
IN PRACTICE SHOOT

Kaukauna—Officers of the Kaukauna Gun club are making plans for a practice shoot to be held at the club grounds, Sunday, April 24. This shoot will be for Kaukauna marksmen only.

The Northwestern Wisconsin Trapping league will open on Sunday, May 22, with a league shoot at Oconto. Members of the league are Oconto, Kaukauna, Manitowish, Waupaca, Green Bay, Appleton.

L. C. Wolf, secretary of the Kaukauna club, says the traps are in good condition and that no repairs are necessary on the grounds this year.

HEALTH EXPERT VISITS
RURAL NORMAL PUPILS

Kaukauna—Dr. Sylvia Stuessy of the Wisconsin State Board of Health completed a physical examination of the students of the Outagamie Rural Normal school Thursday afternoon. Dr. Stuessy spent Wednesday and Thursday examining the students.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS TO PASS ON CONTRACTS

Kaukauna—Contracts of teachers for the school term opening in September, 1927, will be acted upon at a special meeting of the board of education Monday evening in the high school offices. Other routine business will come before the meeting.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Gordon Patton. His telephone numbers are 238 J and 10. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Patton.

SOFTBALL PLAYERS OPEN THEIR SEASON APRIL 25

Kaukauna—Monday, April 25, has been set as the tentative date for the opening of the Kaukauna City Soft Ball league. William Smith will again have charge of arranging a schedule for the league which is to consist of eight teams, same as last year. The teams playing in the league last year were Electricians, Plumbers, Office, Homans Traders, Bankers, Clerks, Mulford's Clothiers, Volleyballers and Postals. Homans and the Bankers were tied for first last year and in the playoff Homans won two out of three games.

Games will be played on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week with Friday held open for postponed games. Charles Wings will be the official scorer. An entry fee of $2 will be charged but each team will pay $5 and the additional $3 will be used for buy equipment.

Playing rules will be practically the same as last year. By starting on April 25, the season will be somewhat longer than last year and each team will meet every other team in the league three times. Some of the players thought the season too short last year when only two games were played with each team.

Several practice games will be played before the opening date. William Smith said. Games will be played on the municipal playgrounds.

HOME OF ONEIDA FARMER IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Oneida—Early Tuesday morning, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Conrad was burned to the ground. It is thought that sparks from the chimney caused the fire. Mr. and Mrs. Conrad were in the barn when the fire started. Their son about 10 years old, took the baby from the cradle and just escaped when the roof fell in. Nothing was saved. All of Mr. Conrad's seed oats and other grain, had purchased the day before and stored in a vacant room in the house, was burned. He had no insurance. They live on the Brownlee line.

The St. Mary's Easter services will be a mass at 8 o'clock in the morning and evening service at 7:30.

Easter services at the Methodist church will begin with a prayer meeting at 6 o'clock in the morning and Sunday school at 9:45 and preaching services at 11 o'clock, 2:30 in the afternoon and 7:30. A large chorus choir will sing at all services.

The Altar society of the St. Mary church will give a social Easter Monday night at the St. Mary hall.
